LIFE'S MINOR TROUBLES

—the small every-day worries, cares and disappointments which are the common lot of humanity—will be borne all the more easily when the health is sound. The bodily condition has a considerable influence upon the mind, the source of cheerfulness, good spirits and happiness generally. It is well to remember, therefore, that by keeping the liver active, the stomach healthy, and the bowels regular you will go far towards keeping the mind clear, alert and efficient—ready to face cheerfully and with a good heart the minor troubles and worries of life. Beecham's Pills, when taken in accordance with the directions, will be found to accomplish beneficial changes in the physical condition. They will set the digestive system right in the first place and thus promote a cheerful state of mind. Life on the whole will be easier, more satisfactory and altogether a greater success if you keep up the general health by taking

GENTLEMEN OF ENGLAND v. AUSTRALIANS.

Opposed by a strong team representing the amateur talent of England, the Australians were kept in the field all yesterday at Lord's, as a result of good batting by the home side, under the captaincy of Warner. Gillingham and Knight laid the foundation of a good score by obtaining 84 in equal shares for the first wicket in sixty-five minutes, the Oxonian then getting in front of a straight one from Winning. This was the only success which attended the visitors before lunch, when the score showed 101 for one wicket, Gillingham completing his half-century with the last ball before the adjournment. He batted an hour and fifty minutes before being caught at short slip for a well-played 83, in which were seven 4's, his on driving being a feature of the display. He apparently offered a hot return to Lampard when 13; otherwise, batting was admirable. Evans and Warner added 72 for the third wicket in the next three-quarters of an hour, the former availing himself largely of the pull stroke in subscribing 68, for which he was batting ninety minutes, before lifting one to Pellew at cover-point. He hit six 4's and four 3's. Warner, after a steady innings of 43, extending over seventy minutes, was bowled by Gregory, who resumed at the pavilion end, and also claimed Bruce, who had never been comfortable. There was a further excellent stand for the sixth wicket by Major Douglas and Carr, the latter, after not appreciating Gregory, now bowling at top speed, applying the wood with vigour. They added 102 in sixty-five minutes, Carr, after reaching the half-century, being nicely stumped by Douglas. He was batting for an hour and a half. A shower stopped play soon after six o'clock, with the total at 378 for six wickets. Score:—

SUSSEX v. OXFORD UNIVERSITY.

In the opening of the match between Sussex and Oxford University at Brighton yesterday, the play was of moderate quality, the batsmen having, apparently to work hard for their runs. Going in first, the Dark Blues were put out in less than three hours for 171, after being 121 for four wickets at lunch. The only batsmen to be seen to real advantage were Howell and Ward, who made the only stand of the innings, putting on 86 for the third wicket. Ward played a bright game, driving well and hitting one 6 and four 4's. Howell offered a stout defence for two and a half hours, and after he left there was something of a collapse. Two hours and twenty minutes remained for play when Sussex went in, and in that time they scored 152 for four wickets. Score:—

WORCESTERSHIRE v. GLOUCESTERSHIRE.

Gloucestershire, who brought along a fairly representative side, were stronger on paper, and looked like getting rid of the home eleven pretty cheaply, for Parker and Ellis sent back half the side for 27. Jewell left after batting an hour in good style; then Tipper, with Allchurch, set up a strong defence, the latter finely off-driving Dipper to send up three figures, and the score was 115 at the lunch interval. Shortly after the interval, Tipper went, caught at slip for a meritorious 42, which included five boundaries. Taylor hit well, but Allchurch, last to go, was top scorer with 51—a steady compilation, which took him just over two hours. Parker bowled well for over three hours, and certainly deserved better fortune, for he was always on the spot. The innings lasted three hours and twenty minutes. Gloucestershire opened in steady fashion, the Worcester attack being none too deadly. The first wicket fell at 46, the second going immediately, but Worcester's total was passed with seven wickets still in hand, and when stumps were drawn Gloucester, with six wickets to go, were 34 runs on. Score:—

WARWICKSHIRE v. SURREY.

Many showers passed over the Birmingham ground yesterday, and there were frequent stoppages in the above match, while a boisterous cold wind interfered with the comfort of the players and the spectators alike. Warwickshire, for whom the old fast bowler, Field, re-appeared, won the toss for the fifth successive occasion, and took first innings. They scored 189. The batting was not impressive, apart from that of Stephens and Smith, who added 99 runs for the fifth wicket in eighty mins. Stephens hit five 4's, and Smith four, but the former's was the better innings. Surrey, beginning badly, Hobbs and Sandham were out for 10, but then Ducat and Harrison stayed together until rain stopped play for the day. Score:—

CAMBRIDGE UNIV. v. MAJOR LEVESON GOWER'S XI.

Cambridge did exceedingly well in this three-day match, which opened at Eastbourne yesterday. Leveson Gower's side was captained by Tufnell, who, however, had rather a weak side under his command. The freedom with which the 'Varsity batsmen scored in the last two hours of the day pleased the spectators, who realised, however, that the bowling was not strong. Going in first, Gower's side started very poorly, losing Anson, McIver, and McBryan with only 20 on the board. Twining and Mann improved the situation, and Smith came forward with a clever 46 (not out), but the side were out at four o'clock for 157. Cambridge lost Wood at 46, but Johnstone and Wilson set merrily about the bowling and Gower's score was passed with only one wicket down. In the last over of the day Johnstone, who had played delightful cricket, was smartly caught when 10 short of his century. He hit eight boundaries. Cambridge finished up in very strong position. SPORTING NEWS.

CURRAGH MEETING—THIS DAY.

The principal meeting of the year at the Curragh, which opens to-day, will, as only befits the occasion, furnish very good sport. Excellent programmes have been arranged for all three days, with the Irish Derby as the centre-piece, and that event promises to be exceptionally interesting owing to the participation in it of The Panther, who will be opposed by the cream of the home-trained three-year-olds.

It is to be deplored that, owing to the strike in the printing trade, no race cards will be available, and the public as a consequence must suffer considerable inconvenience. Chief importance this afternoon will attach to the Flat Rath Stakes and the Waterford Testimonial Stakes, the latter of which will bring out a big field of juveniles. Selections:—

Scurry Plate—Chauntress.
Flat Rath Stakes—Impertinent.
Waterford Testimonial Stakes—Hunt Law or Murmansk.
Ballymany Stakes—Pigment or Baby Blake.
Camp Plate—Undies.
Conyngham Plate—Marriage Gift.

ROWING.

DUBLIN UNIVERSITY BOAT CLUB.

The Annual Dinner of the above will take place in the Dining Hall, Trinity College, to-morrow (Wednesday), at 8 p.m. All members who wish to attend should send in their names to the Hon. Secretary, 13 T.C.D., as early to-day as possible.—(Advt.)

THURLES MEETING—YESTERDAY.

The revival of racing at Thurles was welcomed by the people of the district, who have been without a meeting for several years, and the attendance yesterday was well up to pre-war standard. The racing, too, was fairly interesting, and but for a cold wind the conditions were favourable. Mirza, an odds on favourite for the Thurles Plate, gave his backers a bit of a fright when, after heading Retaine at the entrance to the straight, the latter stuck to him for a time, but in the last furlong the son of Mirador easily got the better of the other, and scored readily. Treble Scotch, another from the Maddenstown Lodge stable, was also favourite for the Ladies' Plate, but was beaten into third place by Ironmaster and Manda, the former of this pair only getting up in the last stride to win by a short head. Noble Guard was leading when he fell half-way through the Committee Plate, and the race fell an easy prey to Troytown's stable companion, Marla. The field for the Town Plate was early reduced through Desert Sand and Ballyneale running out at the second fence, and the once useful Cooldreen, leading The Fly III. for the remainder of the journey, won in comfortable style. The Corinthian Plate fell an easy prey to Caustic, and in the concluding steeplechase, Hoop-oe was in front from start to finish. Details:—

2.15—THURLES PLATE of 60 sovs. A handicap flat race. 1 m. 3 f.
Mr. J. J. Parkinson's br. g. MIRZA, by Mirador—Noni Mac, 4, 12-0....Mr. W. J. Parkinson 1
Mr. J. R. Markey's GENEVIEVE, 6, 11-5 H. Beasley 2
Mr. E. S. Agnew's RETAINE, 6, 11-11..J. Dines 3

Also ran:—West (W. Smith). (Winner trained by Owner.) Betting—5 to 4 on MIRZA, 2 to 1 agst. Genevieve, 5 to 1 Retaine, 20 to 1 West.

Retaine led from Mirza, Genevieve, and West, until half a mile from home, when Mirza drew out, and, making the remainder of the running, won easily by five lengths; a head divided second and third.

2.30—COMMITTEE PLATE of 50 sovs. A handicap steeplechase. 2 m.
Capt. Wyndham Quin's bl. m. MARLA, by Marco—Dollars, 6, 9-9 .... J. Finn 1
Mr. G. O'Grady's FORT ELIZABETH, 5, 10-7 G. Harty 2
Mr. M. Cunningham's AM, a, 10-7..J. Hogan, sen. 3

Also ran:—Warbine (W. Smith), Noble Guard (C. Aylin), Kriwitz (J. McCormack). (Winner trained by A. Anthony.) Betting—6 to 4 agst. Noble Guard, 2 to 1 Am, 5 to 1 MARLA, 10 to 1 any other.

Fort Elizabeth set the pace to Noble Guard, Am, and Kriwitz for a mile, when Noble Guard drew to the front, but ran out shortly afterwards. Fort Elizabeth then resumed command, but was headed half a mile from home by Marla, who won easily by fifteen lengths; two lengths between second and third. Warbine and Kriwitz ran out half a mile from home.

3.0—TOWN PLATE of 50 sovs. A weight for age steeplechase. 3 m.
Mr. M. Cummins's b. g. COOLDREEN, by Bealderg or Gay Reveller—Rheims, a, 12-4 G. Bennett 1
Mr. P. Sheehan's THE FLY III., a, 11-8 Mr. J. Manley 2

Also ran:—Ballyneale (H. Harty), Desert Sand (O. Darcy). (Winner trained Privately. Betting—11 to 10 agst. COOLDREEN, 2 to 1 Ballyneale, 3 to 1 The Fly III., 10 to 1 Desert Sand.

Desert Sand and Ballyneale ran out at the second fence, and Cooldreen, making all the running, won by four lengths.

3.30—CORINTHIAN PLATE of 40 sovs. A weight for age flat race. 2 m.
Mr. P. F. Joyce's CAUSTIC, a, 11-7 Mr. L. Keating 1
Mr. C. J. Stephens' LINTHOUSE, 5, 11-12 Owner 2
Mrs Sowler's DECLAMATION, 5, 11-12 Mr. J. Murphy 3

Also ran:—Czaritza mare (Mr. P. Hartigan), Wavelet's Cup (Mr. J. Manley), Ardbraccan (Mr. T. Singleton), Bachelor's Jewel filly (Mr. L. T. Byrne), Solus (Mr. H. Kenny, jun.). (Winner trained by Mr. J. Dwyer.) Betting—6 to 4 agst. Linthouse, 2 to 1 CAUSTIC, 3 to 1 Wavelet's Cup, 10 to 1 Solus, 20 to 1 any other.

Wavelet's Cup led from Declamation, Linthouse, Caustic, and Solus, for half the journey, when Linthouse went on from Declamation and Caustic. At the entrance to the straight Caustic drew out, and won easily by eight lengths; three-parts of a length between second and third. Czaritza mare was fourth and Solus next.

4.0—LADIES' PLATE of 45 sovs. A weight for age flat race. 1 m. 3 f.
Mr. T. Quinlan's ch. g. IRONMASTER, by Prospector—Bridie, 5, 9-6 ....H. Beasley 1

CHANTICLEER'S NOTES.

(SPECIAL TELEGRAM.)

BRIGHTON, MONDAY NIGHT.

There appears to be an enormous holiday-making population in Brighton just now, and a large proportion of the visitors went to the race hill to-day under breezy conditions. Improved fields may be expected to-morrow. My selections are:—Sussex Plate—Tagrag. Steyning Plate—Pourville. High-Weight Handicap—Muscovada or White Sand. Ditchling Plate—Lord Wilton's selected. Patcham Plate—Hare's selected or Sensitive Symons. Egremont Plate—Polichinelle.

My fancies for Birmingham are:—Tamworth Plate—Duncan. Packington Plate—Loppy. Bromford Plate—Indian Feast. Midland Plate—Maledune. Guernsey Stakes—Prince Orb. Bull Ring Handicap—Dawn of Peace.

A HOLIDAY HINT

Don't buy new and expensive clothes for your Holiday—send your old boating and tennis flannels, sports and golf coats, light silk, voile, and foulard dresses—to Pullars to be cleaned by their famous processes.

The garments will come up as fresh and smart as when new and the cost is trifling.

Pullars are very busy, so you should send orders at once to avoid disappointment.

WEATHER FORECAST.

General Inference.—A deep depression over the North Sea is moving south or south-east. High north-westerly winds or gales are anticipated over the whole of the British Isles.

Ireland—High north-westerly winds or gales, moderating gradually; squally, cloudy, some showers; improving slowly; good visibility; rather cool.

The Irish Times.

TUESDAY, JUNE 24, 1919.

Germany has agreed to sign the Peace Treaty unconditionally. It is reported that her decision has been sanctioned by a large majority of the National Assembly at Weimar. Thursday is regarded as the probable date for the signing of the Treaty at Versailles.

Reports from Berlin indicate that the German generals have offered strong opposition to the signing of the Peace Treaty. The position of the Cabinet is described as critical, and one newspaper prints a rumour that, overawed by the generals, it has resigned.

A report from Paris last night states the Germans have sunk the remainder of their warships lying in German harbours.

It is stated that 1,800 German officers and men of the scuttled fleet at Scapa Flow are being interned.

At the annual meeting of the St. Andrew's Babies' Club yesterday the Lord Chief Justice said that work of that kind in the whole City of Dublin would require very strong and persistent effort, and Mr. Justice Pim attributed the present world unrest and tendency to anarchy as partly due to present-day conditions of living.

At the annual meeting of the Dublin Industrial Development Association, which was held last night, Sir Maurice Dockrell, M.P., said that people were facing days in which they would have to deal with trusts and combines, and it was only by co-operation that they could hold their own.

At a meeting of the Dublin Board of Guardians yesterday the proposed new salary scale for the officials was, on an amendment, referred back for consideration by the Salary Revision Committee.

Yesterday, while standing in the Main street of Thurles, District Inspector Hunt, R.I.C., was foully shot dead. Three shots are stated to have been fired, two of which took effect. The street was crowded at the time of the occurrence by people who had returned to the town from the local race meeting. No arrests have been made.

The London Stock Markets presented a steady appearance, the peace news being regarded as good. Among Industrials, Rubbers were much more strong, and Oils showed rises in a majority. Courtaulds, among Textiles, were strong. Day-to-day money was in good supply at easier rates, and discounts were not so firm. In Dublin the Market was fairly busy and price movements irregular. Great Northern Railway Ord. was strong.

The Government and Ireland.

The need of the Royal Irish Constabulary Benevolent Fund is enforced by the tragic news which we print to-day. Another brave and loyal servant of the King has fallen to the assassin's bullet. District-Inspector Michael Hunt, of the Royal Irish Constabulary, who was killed in the Square of Thurles yesterday, was no "Saxon tyrant" or "oppressor." He was a good Irishman, a man of the people, who had risen from the ranks by ability and faithful service. He enjoyed the respect of all who knew him, and had no personal enemies. He has been sent to his last account by men of his own race and class. More than sixty years ago Thomas Davis told the Irish people that—

"Freedom comes from God's right hand,
And needs a godly train."

To-day the sacred name of freedom is befouled with the darkest crime, and the leaders of the Republican movement are silent. The last two or three months have witnessed a series of brutal and still unpunished murders of innocent Irishmen. It began with the killing of two constables in County Tipperary. Then Mr. Milling, a Resident Magistrate, was assassinated at Westport; a constable was shot dead in Limerick Workhouse; a sergeant and a constable were murdered in the fulfilment of their duty at Knocklong. Once more to-day the fame of Tipperary is blackened by an abominable crime. At the moment of his death District-Inspector Hunt was engaged in no unpopular duty; his murder was the outcome of no sudden impulse of passion. It was committed coldly and deliberately in the broad daylight of a crowded thoroughfare.

Most of the recent crimes have three features in common. They were done audaciously, with little or no attempt at concealment. In every case the criminals escaped and have not been brought to justice. No urgent voice of outraged public opinion has condemned the crimes with such vigour as to make a repetition of them impossible. These three features reveal an appalling moral condition throughout the South and West of Ireland. They show that the people, as a whole, live in a state of the direst intimidation. They are afraid to give free play to their instincts of decency and to the promptings of their inherited Christianity. Murder and outrage seem to have become an implement of politics. We do not believe for a moment that all, or many, advocates of the Republican movement approve of the recent murders. It is probable, we think, that these are mainly the work of some small and desperate organisation. Nevertheless, the movement, through its accredited leaders, has not condemned these crimes. The alleged sufferings of political prisoners and of small boys under detention have been denounced with furious heat, but, so far as we are aware, no public protest by the Dail Eireann or other official organisation of Sinn Fein has followed a single one of six murders of Irish policemen. We suppose that District-Inspector Hunt's death will create no exception to the rule. The Ireland which believes itself to be fit for absolute freedom has not the moral courage to denounce deeds that put it to shame before the world. The Roman Catholic Hierarchy will be in session at Maynooth to-day. Its voice, we may hope, will be raised in strong and solemn warning against a tyranny which, for every body that it kills, enslaves a thousand souls.

There is much talk of some new attempt to settle the Irish question. In due time, no doubt, we shall know the Government's intentions, and shall be able to make a fairly good guess at the probable fate of its plans. Surely, however, before the English people are asked to sanction new experiments, and before American sympathy is sought for such experiments, both English and Americans ought to study the actual conditions of life in Ireland. At present the fantastic report of the Irish-American delegates is in circulation throughout the United States. Something more is needed than the Irish Government's answer to it—even if the truth succeed in following the lie promptly into all parts of a vast country. It is not enough to refute the wicked and ridiculous charges against the machinery of Irish government. Great Britain and America must be made to understand why this machinery exists; why its existence is at this moment an absolute necessity; against what crime and peril it is striving to protect the interests of law-abiding Irishmen and of the British Empire. When this knowledge is brought home to them American feeling will become more just and more discriminating, and the English people will begin to appreciate the real needs of the Irish situation. The immediate problem is not how the government of Ireland may be improved: it is the problem of saving Ireland and Great Britain from a most dangerous conspiracy which is seeking the disintegration of the Empire through the instruments of lawlessness and crime. Until that conspiracy is suppressed—until the Irish people take courage to dissociate themselves from its aims and to repudiate methods of terrorism and outrage—the British Government can have only one duty in Ireland. That is the plain and straightforward duty of enforcing the law without regard for the threats of sedition at home or the calumnies of loose-tongued agitators abroad.

Germany Submits.

The German Government has decided to accept the terms of peace. Herr von Haniel, Chargé d'Affaires at Versailles, in the absence of the official German Delegation, handed M. Clemenceau a Note yesterday evening which conveyed the fateful decision to the Allies. This last of Germany's many Notes is worthy of careful study. It affords a good example of Teutonic methods, and is a further proof of the apparent inability of German politicians to recognise plain facts. The honour of the German people, forsooth, has been attacked by the Allies. The German Government views "with consternation" the wicked resolution of Great Britain, America, France, and Italy to "wrest by sheer force" from Germany the acceptance of even those conditions which are devoid of material importance, but deal a cowardly blow at her honour. This valuable and recently acquired national asset, however, will "remain untouched by any act of violence," and, we presume, will continue to manifest itself in the conduct of the Fatherland even after the oppressive Treaty has been signed. Where was Germany's honour five years ago? Where was it two days ago when Admiral von Reuter tore up another "scrap of paper" at Scapa Flow? Such clumsy attempts to save Germany's face can only have one result. The people of the world who have been trying to be fair to Germany, and to make allowances for the terrible ordeals through which her people have gone, will turn away in disgust from a nation which at her direst hour cannot abandon her theatrical humbug. To prate of Germany's honour while Louvain still lies in ashes, and the fairest provinces of ravished France reek with blood, is not only to lay bare a callous cynicism which no amount of maudlin sentiment can hide, but to offer a final and deliberate insult to the nations which have been outraged by this same German honour. Shorn of its pretentious nonsense, however, the German Note will put an end to the suspense which has been hanging over Europe. Germany will sign. Prudence has prevailed at Weimar, and, although its victory has resulted in the retirement of the Scheidemann-Rantzau régime, men have been found in the Fatherland who will drink the bitter cup. It matters but little what names appear on the parchment scroll which will pass down to history as the world's greatest Peace Treaty. One German signature is as valuable as another.

The news that peace is to be signed at last will be welcomed in every European home; but the actual signature of the Treaty will take us but a short step towards the goal. Germany cannot be trusted. If any doubts had existed on this score, they must have been set at rest long since by the events of the past few months. Although Herr von Haniel's Note declares that Germany is ready to accept the terms, it gives no earnest of her will or desire to fulfil them. On the contrary, it suggests mental reservations which free Germany from any moral obligation to carry out an agreement that she accepts only under pressure of "overwhelming force." The new German Government which has accepted the responsibility of making peace is of a curiously composite character. Herr Bauer, the Premier, is of little account, and the moving force is undoubtedly Herr Erzberger, who is well known in international affairs. His name has a sinister ring, and the greatest caution will need to be shown in all dealings with a Government which he controls. Herr Erzberger was largely instrumental in the framing and carrying through of the famous Reichstag "Peace Resolution" in July, 1917. He also was in charge of Germany's official propaganda, and showed particular interest in the conversion of Irish prisoners of war to Teutonic ideals. He is a clever politician, and has few scruples where Germany's "honour" is concerned. For that reason the Allies will need to take every care that their terms are not evaded. If evasion is possible, Matthias Erzberger is the man who will find a way. It is not yet outside the bounds of possibility, however, that a coup d'état may bring us face to face with a totally new and serious situation. The Vossische Zeitung is responsible for a rumour that the Bauer Cabinet resigned yesterday—presumably after Herr von Haniel had been instructed to accept the terms. The reasons given by the Berlin journal for this unexpected démarche are that "leading generals" brought pressure to bear upon the Government. Has another Hoffman come to Weimar? Whatever truth may be in this rumour, it seems to be certain that a grave Cabinet crisis has arisen, and that prominent generals, jealous of the "honour" of the German officers' corps, are largely responsible. The fact that generals still have a voice in the conduct of affairs, even in "proletarian" Germany, confirms our suspicion that Prussian democracy is a feckless thing, and makes it all the more necessary that there shall be no relaxation of the Allies' hold upon their unabashed, if conquered, foe. Peace probably will be signed, for better or for worse, within the next few days, but before the work of beating our swords into ploughshares can begin, the world will need to have some very convincing proofs that Germany has learned her lesson. In the meantime, Die Wacht am Rhein must be maintained.

French Elections.

French advocates of electoral reform have scored a notable triumph. By a majority of thirty the Senate has decided that the next Parliamentary elections—which will be held as soon as possible after the declaration of peace—shall be conducted in accordance with the principle of proportional representation. The system adopted differs in several important respects from that which will be employed at the Irish local elections next year. French electors will be required to vote on a single ballot paper for as many candidates as there are seats to be filled in the department—in other words, for a list of candidates instead of single candidates. This is the method which was followed in the election of the German National Assembly last December, and on that occasion it proved to be an unqualified success. The struggle for this reform has been a long one. Some six years ago a measure to give effect to it was approved by the Chamber, but was thrown out by the Senate on the demand of M. Clemenceau, who organised a furious opposition to the proposal. Even now the French Premier is not in favour of it. He and his Cabinet were strongly opposed to the Bill, but they refrained from taking any official part in the debate upon it. The country, as a whole, is thoroughly in favour of the reform. It realises that proportional representation is the only method which will enable all shades of opinion to be represented adequately in the composition of Parliament.

COURT CIRCULAR.

VICEREGAL LODGE.

MONDAY.

Sir Thomas Stafford and the Right Hon. Frank and Mrs. Brooke arrived at the Lodge this evening.

MARSHAL JOFFRE.

Marshal Joffre, says a Reuter's telegram, left Paris yesterday morning en route for Oxford.

WILL OF THE DOWAGER MARCHIONESS OF LONDONDERRY.

Theresa Susey Helen Dowager Marchioness of Londonderry, of 5 Carlton House terrace, London, S.W., and formerly of Seaham Hall, Sunderland; Wynyard Park, Stockton-on-Tees, and Mount Stewart, Newtownards, County Down, who died on March 16th last, daughter of the 19th Earl of Shrewsbury and Talbot, and widow of the 6th Lord Londonderry, has left estate of the value of £141,088 6s. 8d., with net personalty £139,519 17s. 5d. The will, dated August 4th, 1917, is proved by the Earl of Ilchester, of Holland House, Kensington; Viscount Allendale, of 198 Piccadilly, and Malcolm Dillon, of Seaham, Durham. Lady Londonderry gives her letters, papers, diaries, etc., and £1,000 to the Right Hon. John Sandars and the Hon. Gervase Beckett, they to publish such as are of "real public interest"; £500 to Malcolm Dillon; £100,000 in trust for her son the present Marquis, and his eldest son; funds amounting to nearly £30,000 in trust for her grandson, John D. Fox Strangways, and pins and rings to the Duke of Portland, the Right Hon. Walter Long, Sir Edward Carson, and the Marquis of Zetland.

ROYAL IRISH ACADEMY.

At a meeting of the Royal Irish Academy, held yesterday at the Academy Office, Dawson street, Dublin—the Archbishop of Dublin presiding—a paper by Professor A. Henry and Miss M. G. Flood, on "The History of the Dunkeld Hybrid Larch, Larix eurolepis, with notes on other Hybrid Conifers," was read. "Dunkeld Hybrid Larch" is the name given by foresters to seedlings that have been repeatedly raised from the seed of certain Japanese larch trees, which are growing near the mansion at Dunkeld, Perthshire. Numerous European larch trees occur in their vicinity. Extensive plantations of these seedlings, which are very vigorous, have been made on the Dunkeld, Athol, and Murthly estates. Careful examination shows that the seedlings are hybrids between the Japanese and European species, the pollen of the latter being wafted by the wind on the female flowers of the former. A short account was given of the other hybrid conifers, including a peculiar hemlock spruce introduced from Vancouver Island by Mr. M. Hornibrook, of Knapton, Abbeyleix.

COUNTY COURT JUDGE AND THE TALLOW CONSPIRACY CASE.

County Court Judge Fleming, at Longford Quarter Sessions, awarded Mr. Phillip O'Reilly, publican, Ballinamuck, £25 damages for alleged conspiracy to injure him in his business against Mr. James Reynolds and men named Michael M'Kenna and Patrick Gill.

His Honour, in giving his decision, referred to the Tallow conspiracy decision, which, he said, had the effect of making paupers of the defendants, but it did more for the peace of the district than all the criminal prosecutions for the previous three or four years.

DUBLIN LABOUR DISPUTES.

Some 500 compositors employed by sixteen book and jobbing printing firms in Dublin did not start work yesterday morning in consequence of a dispute as to rules and conditions relating to working hours, etc.

The smiths' helpers and pummicers employed by Messrs. Saunderson, coachbuilders, Dominick street, withdrew their labour yesterday, consequent on the non-compliance of the firm with the recent wages award. The firm state they are not affected by the award, as they are not members of the Coachbuilders' Association.

On the occasion of the abolition of the supreme command of the Allied naval forces in the Mediterranean, the French Commander-in-Chief in the Mediterranean and Admiral Sir Somerset Gough Calthorp have exchanged most cordial greetings, says a Toulon telegram.

LONDON CORRESPONDENCE.

80 FLEET STREET, LONDON,
MONDAY NIGHT.

The Germans are to sign. The news was announced here in Fleet street at seven o'clock, the hour at which the command of affairs was to have passed into the hands of Marshal Foch. Beyond a great demand for the newspapers, there was little evidence of excitement. People purchased a paper, read the statement, and then went on as calmly as usual. Some bright young spirits had come forth provided with bugles and other instruments for making a noise, but they received no encouragement, and so far the night has been free from music. It is now reported that it is possible that the Peace Treaty may be signed on Wednesday, but this seems a little optimistic. The German Delegation will not reach Versailles until to-morrow morning. There is, however, nothing more to wait for, no more discussions, and probably a desire on the part of the Germans to get the signing over. Wednesday may, in the circumstances, see the Treaty signed.

Mr. Bonar Law and Lord Milner will sign the Treaty, but they had not left London at midday, and would certainly not go by air, since the weather is too much unsettled. If they travel by the usual route, they will reach Paris to-morrow, so that their absence is not likely to delay the signing.

The secrecy maintained by the Admiralty with regard to the events at Scapa Flow is responsible for all kinds of rumours. Early to-day it was stated that over one hundred Germans were believed to have been drowned, and that a number of bodies had been washed ashore. Late this evening the Evening News states that it has received information from its special correspondent at Thurso that some seven hundred Germans are killed, wounded, or missing, and that the Von Moltke, with the Admiral and three hundred men on board, was blown up. Whether this story is true or not it is impossible to say. The only course to be followed is to wait until the Admiralty choose to lift the veil.

We are all eager to know as much as possible of what has been going on in Paris all these months in connection with the Peace Conference. We want to know why there have been so many delays and so many upsets generally, and what the various notabilities have said and done. Some of this curiosity is likely to be gratified before very long, for it is said that one of the best informed and most accurate histories of the Peace Conference at work is being prepared by a well-known journalist, perfectly qualified for his task.

The last German Note has been a great shock to the pro-Germans of this country, who would fain have us believe that the Germans had quite reformed, and that an honest democracy was in possession. This new Germany they so much admire wants two things. One is to save the ex-Kaiser and his associates, the other to have the Treaty revised in two years, so that responsibility may be escaped. Probably we shall soon have some of the leading pro-Germans explaining why the Germans want these things so earnestly, and urging that their wishes shall be respected.

M. Paderewski, the Premier of Poland, is expected in London during the next few days. He has been invited by Oxford University to deliver an address on the problems of Poland as they exist to-day, and has consented.

The first business before the House of Commons to-morrow is the vote for the Ministry of Munitions, while Wednesday and Thursday will be given to the report stage of the Transport Bill. The members representing London are meeting during the week to organise opposition to the inclusion of the Port of London in this Bill, and the debate may be carried over until next week. If the Peace Treaty is signed this week, it is probable that the Prime Minister will make a statement in the House of Commons early next week. It is quite possible that the British peace delegates will all return from Paris together, arriving in London at Victoria at an hour when a public reception will be likely. Nothing has been arranged, but since they are coming back bringing "peace with honour," like Lord Beaconsfield, it is suggested that some step should be taken to show popular approval. Lord Beaconsfield and Lord Salisbury were in Berlin for one month in 1878. But the present Congress has lasted many months and is not yet concluded. Peace has yet to be made with the remnants of Austria, Turkey, and Bulgaria.

To-morrow questions will be addressed in the House of Commons to Mr. Kellaway regarding the £4,000,000 linen deal and the sale of Government property generally. The First Lord of the Admiralty is also to be questioned regarding the sinking of the German Fleet, and asked why more stringent precautions were not taken.

Dr. Addison, who has been touring the provinces, waking up the local authorities on the housing question, has now returned to the Local Government Board. It is reported that he has found that local authorities generally are awake to the urgency of the housing question, but that the County Councils are still dozing carelessly. Rapid progress is being made in providing bricks, but here the trade union questions come in. Unless some dilution of labour is permitted by the unions, or the restrictions removed on the number of bricks to be laid per hour, the unions will be the real drag on rapid building.

The rush to the seaside and holiday resorts of the country has inclined many people to a holiday on the Continent, but, though many thousands of these people are applying for passports to their favourite holiday resorts, they will be unable to obtain them. The Passport Department of the Foreign Office is issuing passports only to people who can show that they need to visit the Continent for business purposes or on urgent family affairs. This action has been taken at the request of foreign Governments, who are still much troubled about shortage of food and transport facilities. Continental holidays, therefore, are out of the question.

R.I.C. BENEVOLENT FUND.

The preliminary list of subscriptions to the Royal Irish Constabulary Benevolent Fund, which is published to-day, is an eloquent proof of the appreciation of a large section of the people of the admirable work of the Royal Irish Constabulary. Most of the counties of Ireland are represented in the list. This fact augurs well for the success of the Fund, and we are sure that all who have the maintenance of law and order, and the preservation of life and property, at heart will be glad to avail themselves of the opportunity of subscribing. The Fund should commend itself to all who are concerned in the welfare of the country, and will be a testimonial of their confidence in the loyalty and bravery of the R.I.C. Subscriptions may be sent to the Hon. Sec., Lieutenant-Colonel Sir Hutcheson Poë, Heywood, Ballinakill, Queen's County, or to the Hon. Treasurers, care of the Bank of Ireland, College Green, Dublin.

DUBLIN INDUSTRIAL DEVELOPMENT ASSOCIATION.

OPPORTUNITIES FOR IRISH ENTERPRISES.

The annual meeting of the Dublin Industrial Development Association was held in the Mansion House, Dublin, last night, Mr. A. Mitchell presiding.

A large number of letters of apology for inability to attend was read.

The Royal Italian Consul-General for Ireland wrote stating that he would be happy to co-operate with the Association, and render any assistance possible in the establishment of trade with Italy.

Mr. M. J. Gallagher, in the course of a letter, stated that he was convinced that the workers of Ireland had, in joint standing industrial councils, an unprecedented opportunity of settling their difficulties.

Mr. J. V. MacConville wrote to the effect that he looked forward to the development of export trade to the United States in the near future, and suggested that public opinion should be aroused on the subject of delays caused by want of shipping from Dublin.

Mr. T. C. Macardle, Dundalk, referred in a letter to matters in which the Government could assist the country, especially in relation to Dundalk Harbour.

The fourteenth annual report dealt with the progress of the industrial movement in Ireland, and the possibilities of its development, adding that existing Irish industries were in almost every case capable of very considerable development. In no one instance was the home market completely held by Irish products. Scores of articles which might be regarded as necessaries of life were, it is stated, not now produced in Ireland, and were imported year after year. Their manufacture in Ireland would be remunerative to all concerned, and it might be taken as certain that that fact would be recognised in the near future by outside forces, and that foreign capital would be applied to the production of these and other goods on Irish soil. Referring to Irish coal supplies, the report stated that if Irish coal mining were to be seriously undertaken, the conditions prevailing afforded very favourable opportunities provided the matter was taken up with determination. In regard to foreign trade the Council pointed out that little was being done by the commercial community in Ireland to organise their export trade to meet the new opportunities which now await enterprise, but that that Association had been for the past few months engaged in most useful work, delegated to a specially selected committee—the Foreign Trade Committee—having for its object the establishment of direct relations between Ireland and the principal countries which were existing or potential customers of hers. Direct shipping facilities would increase and develop trade. Ireland used, for instance, to take one case, many products of Italian origin. In return she could send such goods as anthracite coal, soap, margarine, butter, and many varieties of manufactured goods. These articles would almost certainly be sufficient to supply cargoes backward and forward for a regular monthly sailing. So with France to an even greater extent. The market which France offered would justify the immediate running of a regular line of steamers. In the case of the United States, the existing trade amply justified Ireland having at least a port of call on the inward and outward journey for a beginning. Having cited the Irish industrial programme which was sent for adoption to all candidates for Irish seats at the recent general election, the Council, in conclusion, urged that the great industrial possibilities of this time of transition, which was also a time calling for the exercise of all the highest faculties of the various peoples of the world, should be considered by Irishmen in the spirit of an enlightened patriotism, determined to make of their country a happy, prosperous hive of industry.

INVESTMENT IN IRISH ENTERPRISE.

The Chairman, in moving the adoption of the report, said that everyone in Ireland was agreed as to the necessity for supporting existing industries and creating new ones. To his mind there were never such opportunities as at present for those who had money to invest for establishing new enterprises in the country, and the most important work of the Association, he believed, was propaganda work. He was strongly of opinion that the future held great possibilities for industries in Ireland.

Mr. J. C. Dowdall, President of the Cork Industrial Development Association, seconded the motion, and said that he believed the Irish banks would assist any good proposition in connection with Irish industry.

SIR MAURICE DOCKRELL, M.P.

Sir Maurice Dockrell, M.P., who supported the motion, said that he was absolutely delighted to have read the splendid report of the work of the Association. (Applause.) He had always held that the Irish people were too modest regarding what they produced, and he advocated the support of Irish made goods. Many old industries of Dublin had passed away. They were now facing days in which they would have to deal with trusts and combines, and an Association of that kind was going to fill a large and important part in the development and protection of industries in Ireland. It would be only by co-operation that they would be able to hold their own. There was an idea that they should kill their own cattle in Dublin, and have a tanning factory in the city, and he did not see why they should not. He and the other members in Parliament would be glad to help the Association, and he hoped that in future Associations such as that would be able to put members of Parliament in a position of knowing how it would be possible to help them to achieve the objects which they had before them. The income of the Association was ridiculous, and if a subsidy were forthcoming the Association could greatly enlarge its work.

Professor Caldwell said that he was willing to help the Association in scientific work, and he would advocate that portion of any grant which the Association might get would be applied to the production of artificial manures in Ireland. Peat in that country could be used for making artificial manures. One-seventh of the whole country consisted of peat land, which could produce huge quantities of manure, and also power gas, which could be used for power purposes. A producer plant could be established near the bog, and fertilisers produced in abundance in their own country.

Mrs. Walshe said that first class articles were being turned out in Ireland, and could compare with those produced in any other part of the world.

Major Crane urged on members of the Association the usefulness of propaganda work.

Mr. O'Dea said that there was never such a demand for Irish-made goods as there was at present.

The French Consul, and Messrs. Quill, O'Keeffe, and Donnelly also addressed the meeting, and the resolution was passed.

Votes of thanks to the Chairman, and to the Lord Mayor for the use of the Mansion House, concluded the proceedings.

COMRADES OF THE GREAT WAR.

COMMITTEE FORMED AT PEMBROKE.

Last night a public meeting was held at the Parochial Hall, Clyde road, Pembroke, for the purpose of forming a local branch of the Comrades of the Great War.

Major-General Sawyer, C.B., C.M.G., presided, and, in explaining the object of the meeting, asked the residents of Pembroke and the general public for their sympathy for this movement. He considered it was absolutely their duty to support it. He was an ex-Service man himself, and could personally testify to what these men had suffered.

Rev. W. C. Simpson said that the reason the meeting was held there was because they could not get another place. The Comrades had nothing at all to do with the Church, therefore, they should be careful not to seem to identify the meeting with it.

Mr. W. C. Webster, Organising Secretary for Mid-Ireland, outlined the objects of the organisation.

Mr. Atkinson, for the Dublin Branch, stated that Mr. White had asked him to advise them to start a branch, but not a club, as they had a big club, with splendid premises, in Dublin, which members of the Pembroke Branch could use. They wanted one live club, not a lot of weak ones.

Mr. Webster said that it was practically useless to start a branch without a club.

A lengthened discussion followed, and it was eventually decided, on the motion of Sir Plunket Barton, seconded by Major Law, to form a Committee in connection with the Dublin Branch, and to employ a canvasser, and that it be an instruction to the Committee to bear in mind the advisability of forming a separate club when circumstances and finances permitted.

IRISH RECONSTRUCTION.

A meeting of the Joint Council of Executive Professions on Irish Reconstruction was held yesterday at 35 Dawson street, Dublin. The chair was occupied by Mr. P. H. McCarthy, President of the Institution of Civil Engineers of Ireland. There were also present:—Messrs. F. Batchelor, F. Bergin, R. E. Byrne, S. G. Gallagher, G. M. Harriss, W. Kaye-Parry, W. Tatlow, T. Tomlinson, and J. T. Jackson, Hon. Secretary.

A reply was read from the Chief Secretary to the Council's request for early publication of the Irish Peat Enquiry Committee's report, stating that he was bringing the matter under the notice of the Department of Industrial and Scientific Research. A report from a Sub-Committee of the Council on the utilisation of Irish peat was considered, adopted, and ordered to be sent to the Chief Secretary, the Vice-President of the Local Government Board, and the Irish members of Parliament.

G.N.R. TRAIN ALTERATIONS.

Particulars of the July train alterations of the Great Northern Railway (Ireland) will be found in the advertisement elsewhere in this issue. On the main line from Dublin to Belfast some of the changes afford additional facilities for reaching Malahide and other seaside resorts, while the 9 a.m. train from Dublin will have a through carriage attached for Portrush, the Northern watering place. Other changes affect the Howth, Ardee, and Belfast-Derry lines.

ALLEGED BOLSHEVISM IN BELFAST.

PROMINENT SOCIALISTS CHARGED.

A special Crimes Court was held in Belfast yesterday to investigate charges of unlawful assembly preferred against several men, some of whom had been prominently associated with the shipyard strikes in the city last spring. There was a large attendance of the public in court, many being obviously sympathisers with the accused.

The first case taken was that of Semin W. Greenspon.

Mr. Cecil Fforde (instructed by Mr. Moorehead, Crown Solicitor) prosecuted, and in outlining the case, said that Greenspon was the principal speaker at a meeting held at 97a Victoria street, Belfast, on 20th April last. He explained the principle of the party he was endeavouring to form in this country, principles of revolutionary socialism, as carried out in its extreme form in Russia. He referred to the chosen people. Presumably he was Jewish, perhaps German-Jewish.

Accused—British.

Continuing, counsel proceeded to quote from Greenspon's speech. "I am a revolutionist, and in favour of the quickest means of bringing a revolution about." Accused then spoke of the slow progress of the political machine, as compared with what might be accomplished by the industrial machine, and explained how they should humbug the working men into achieving results which had been brought about elsewhere—viz., anarchy, chaos, and disorder. It was apparent that the objects of international Bolshevism were being attempted to be introduced. He also referred to the Sinn Fein organisation, and when he was asked by a member of the audience if he wanted bloodshed and slaughter he said that he did not, but that the country could be reduced to such a state of chaos that revolution could be brought about easily. He told them that he was a rebel and a revolutionary.

At another meeting held in the same building, and at which there were about 200 people present, a man named Walter Carpenter was the speaker and Greenspon occupied the chair. Carpenter seemed to be imbued with extreme revolutionary ideals, and he also alluded to the Sinn Feiners in connection with a certain event of recent years. This event, counsel said, led to the destruction of the finest portion of the City of Dublin, and it was apparently a similar object that was desired for Belfast. One could hardly imagine that such wild imbecility as that could make headway amongst the kind of people they expected to find in this city. Carpenter was asked about shedding of blood, and he made the characteristic reply that he meant they should stand behind the guns. He (counsel) had no doubt if the guns came out Greenspon and Carpenter would be a very long way behind. (Laughter.) Concluding, counsel referred to the fact that on arrest Greenspon had in his pocket a torpedo drill book, a Bolshevist manifesto, and other documents.

Mr. S. C. Porter, barrister-at-law, who appeared for the defence, said, in reference to the torpedo drill book, that his client had for a long time been employed on very important work in connection with Admiralty construction at the Queen's Island.

POLICE EVIDENCE.

Constable Concannon deposed to arresting accused on 15th June. He found in his possession, in addition to the torpedo drill book mentioned, a pamphlet dealing with the Russian revolution, notes dealing with Bolshevism, and pencil notes, evidently the groundwork of a political speech. Witness bore out counsel's opening speech regarding the meeting of April 20th. Accused, said witness, explained the slow progress of the political machine as compared with the rapid progress of the industrial machine, because the workers could be got unwillingly to use the industrial weapon, while they would never be got to use the political weapon. All they would have to do would be to wave a flag and say, "Remember the Boyne," and the political machine would go smash, but with properly organised industrial action throughout the various trade unions there was no reason why the industrial revolution could not be brought about easily. The political machine had failed already. Even here in Ireland, where the majority of people voted Sinn Fein, what had that accomplished? Nothing. Down in Limerick they had realised the importance of the industrial weapon, and they were using it. "Would to God that the clarion call from Limerick went out through the length and breadth of Ireland, and matters would soon be right."

Defendant then referred to Sir Edward Carson, and to the men who went out to fight with the tingling of patriotism in their breasts. Now Sir Edward wanted to make England a fit place for heroes to live in, but he had never thought of that before.

A number of questions were asked by members of the audience. The meeting finished with the singing of "The Red Flag."

SIR EDWARD CARSON AND REVOLUTION.

Cross-examined by Mr. Porter, witness said that the meeting was the ordinary weekly meeting of the Independent Labour Party. He would be sorry to associate the principles of that party with those of Lenin or Trotsky.

Of course the word "revolution" is a colourless word? It is.

Is it your opinion he meant revolution with violence and bloodshed? Taking the speech as a whole he could have meant nothing else. He said that a number of the employing class would have to be treated firmly and pushed ruthlessly aside, as had been done in Russia, Roumania, and now in Germany.

Witness said that Greenspon did not refer to Sir Edward Carson as having been accused of preaching the doctrines leading to anarchy.

Did he not say Sir Edward Carson, speaking at Glasgow during the time of the Ulster crisis, said:—"The Attorney-General says that my doctrines and the course I am taking is leading to anarchy. Does he not think I know that? Does he think I am a baby and don't know the consequences of what I am doing?" Defendant did not use that language in the speech.

Constable Kelly said that at the meeting in question Greenspon introduced a Mr. Carpenter, who, in the course of a long speech, said that the capitalists, if they wish, can give us our demands without blood being spilled. Personally, I don't want to see blood spilt, but if it has to be done it may be done sooner than many in this hall expect. After all, the Sinn Feiners—those lads who would not go to France—had to spill blood. You all know they achieved their object manfully and got credit.

David R. Campbell, Secretary of the Belfast Trades Council, examined for the defence, said that the statements alleged to have been made by Greenspon, well linked together and given in that court, did not represent the meaning conveyed to his hearers by the accused.

The Bench convicted Greenspon, sentence being deferred until Friday, when the charges against the other defendants will be investigated.

THE PRICES FOR CEREALS.

As farmers are already aware, the Government have given a guarantee that if the average price of wheat, oats, or barley falls below 2s. 1½d. per stone of 14lbs. in the case of wheat (equivalent to 41s. 11½d. per barrel of 20 stone), 1s. 11½d. per stone of 14lbs. in the case of oats (equivalent to 27s. 8½d. per barrel of 14 stone), 2s. 1½d. per stone of 14lbs. in the case of barley (equivalent to 34s. 5½d. per barrel of 16 stone), payment will be made in respect of each acre on which these cereals were produced in 1919. To come within the terms of the guarantee farmers must declare on forms, now obtainable at all police barracks, their acreage under the cereals named. They should do this accurately and should lodge the forms before 30th June, 1919, at the police barracks of the sub-district in which the land is situated. Having done so they will be given an acknowledgment of receipt signed by the sergeant or constable in charge. These receipts should be carefully preserved. Every form lodged will be checked at the farm by an inspector.

The Government guarantee applies to the proportion of the entire produce of each acre normally sold, and it has been decided to assume that for every statute acre of which corn is produced in the United Kingdom the grower will sell 17 cwts. and 16lbs. in the case of wheat, 9 cwts. 1 qr. and 4lbs. in the case of oats, and 11 cwts. 1 qr. 20lbs. in the case of barley. As far as the individual producer is concerned the payment will be the same whether his crop is light or heavy, and whether he sells or does not sell any or all of it. Accordingly growers of corn who intend to have their crops consumed on their farms should lodge forms.

The price which the individual grower gets for his corn will not affect the payment which he will be entitled to in respect of each statute acre under the Government guarantee. This will depend only on the excess of the guaranteed prices over the [illegible] prices.

Particulars of the regulations are published elsewhere in our columns. The important matter at the moment is that growers should obtain their forms, fill them in accurately, and lodge them at the police barracks during the present month.

MR. HUGHES AND THE GOSPEL OF WORK.

Mr. Hughes, Australian Premier, speaking as a guest of the British Trade Unionists at a dinner in London last night, said that the industrial heavens were all overcast, and the outlook grave. No solution of labour troubles could come save through the acceptance of the gospel of work and unity and co-operation between all classes. By their deeds the workers of England had richly deserved that this should be a better England, but this would not come through Bolshevism. The foundation of the new England rested upon the production of more wealth. Only by a supreme effort in which all classes co-operated could Britain bear the crushing burdens of the war and hold her own in the world's markets.

Seventy-seven deaths have occurred from influenza in Melbourne during the week-end. It is hoped that the strike position will soon show signs of improvement.

THE SIGNATURE AND ITS WORTH.

The Germans have given in, exclaims The Times. They have agreed "to accept the conditions of peace imposed by the Allied and Associated Governments." They have done exactly as it was expected that they would do. They tried to "bluff" and to make reservations up to the last. The Peace, it is now thought, will be signed on Thursday. At all events, continues The Times, the signature is certain in the absence of some quite unexpected developments, and it will take place within a few days in the Palace of the Kings of France, which beheld the birth of the ephemeral Empire of the Hohenzollerns. That transitory and turbulent episode in the history of Europe will be closed where it began. But the evil that the systems of government do lives after them, and there is but too much reason to feel that the taint of greed, falsehood and violence with which 'Prussian militarism' and Prussian diplomacy have imbued the German soul will find its spiritual home there for many years to come.

GERMAN ADMIRAL TO BE COURTMARTIALLED.

We understand, says The Times, that Rear Admiral von Reuter, who was in charge of the German Fleet at Scapa Flow, is to be tried by naval court-martial for the breach of the section of the armistice terms relating to the internment of the enemy vessels by ordering them to be sunk on Saturday. The date and venue of the court-martial will, it is understood, be arranged by the Allied Council in Paris. Admiral von Reuter, with other German officers, is now under arrest at Nigg, near Inverness, where, it is stated, he takes his position quite calmly, and shows some reticence about the manner in which his plans were carried out.

NOT TO BE TRUSTED.

There has long been a widespread feeling that, whatever terms Germany might sign, she would sign with more than one mental reservation, says The Times Political Correspondent in Paris. That conviction has been strengthened in the most definite manner by the events of the last few days, and the sinking of the German Fleet at Scapa Flow, and it finds blunt expression in the German Notes to the Allies. It is clear beyond argument that, just as Admiral von Reuter opened the sea-cocks of his fleet, so in future German diplomacy will try to scuttle the Peace Treaty.

THE ITALIAN CABINET.

Satisfaction will be felt in all Allied countries, remarks The Times, at the comparatively rapid solution of the Italian crisis. Some time may pass before the new Premier, Signor Nitti, can solve the larger crisis in which his country is involved, mainly as a result of his predecessor's short-comings. Before the Peace Conference breaks up it should be possible for a renovated Italian Delegation to find, in conjunction with their Allied and Associated Delegations, at least a provisional way of escape from the blind alley into which Signor Orlando and Baron Sonnino led their country.

AMERICA AND IRELAND.

Mr. de Valera's appearance in New York is likely to start the Transatlantic Irish pot boiling with a vengeance, declares The Times Washington Correspondent. The stage has been set for it to the accompaniment of a regular crescendo of agitation. The newspapers during the past week have teemed with Irish news and Irish expostulations. From Paris have come telegrams hinting at unofficial sympathy on the part of Mr. Wilson with the Irish cause, stating that Mr. Lloyd George, through an emissary, really urged Mr. Walsh and Mr. Dunne to make their report; and intimating that, if the Conference remains obdurate, France, that ancient refuge of oppressed Irishry, may be appealed to. From Dublin and London have come other converging streams. Mr. Tuohy, telegraphing to the New York World from Dublin, criticises Mr. Macpherson—first, for suppressing the Walsh report; secondly, for defending his Administration by an ex parte statement, instead of heeding the demand for the impartial investigation which Mr. Walsh described from Paris as a pressing need. In the United States the friends of the Irish Republic are energetically effervescent. No guarantee can, unfortunately, be given that, if London continues to drift, views such as those of Sir Horace Plunkett, though at the moment they probably appeal to the majority of Americans and many sober Irish-Americans, will continue to prevail. A resolution has been introduced in the House by Mr. Mason, of Illinois, for the recognition of the Irish Republic. As things stand there is no certainty that it might not suddenly be rushed through both Chambers. Even now the Republican leaders in the Senate are having some difficulty in preventing the hotheads of their party from talking about Egypt having as much right as the Hedjas to self-determination. It is always possible that if their picturesque compatriot, Mr. de Valera, can get a hearing in Washington, a Parliamentary agitation of some sort about Ireland might come. It would not, of course, necessarily mean much intrinsically with political passions running as blindly as they are—with responsible Senators, for instance, openly demanding the exclusion of the Japanese on the ground that they are "the Huns of the East," and so on. But why, our friends anxiously ask, does the London Government risk inflaming both sides of the Atlantic by letting run the sore which the Irish question must always be in Anglo-American relationship until a tolerable solution has anyhow been found?

DE VALERA'S MOVEMENTS.

The Times New York Correspondent says:—Though there is no confirmation of Mr. de Valera's presence in the United States, beyond repeated assertions to that effect by his secretary, Mr. H. Boland, the latter announces this morning that "the President of the Irish Republic" will appear at the Waldorf Astoria Hotel punctually at 5.30 p.m., and be ready to receive visitors, to tell them all about the history of his journey. In the meanwhile his place of residence has been kept secret, because, according to Mr. Boland, publicity would have interfered with the transaction of the great volume of business he had got through during his stay. This is stated by Mr. Boland to include a bond issue by the Irish Republic to place the new Government on a sound financial basis.

PARLIAMENT.

Discussing the reassembling of Parliament to-day, The Times Parliamentary Correspondent remarks:—If events across the Channel take the expected course, the Government will be asked to give facilities for an early discussion of the Peace Treaty. The House of Commons is looking to the Prime Minister to carry out his promised reconstruction as soon as he returns from Paris. Hints dropped yesterday suggested that the Prime Minister intended to postpone the evil day as long as possible—at least until Parliament had risen in August. It was indicated that the Prime Minister was contemplating the formulation of a new programme first and the reconstruction of the Government afterwards. This all fits in with the theory that the Prime Minister is swinging rapidly to the left, and wants to make a new bid for popular support.

STATE AND BEER OUTPUT.

The Government are considering, states The Times, a proposal, which has strong Ministerial support, to remove entirely the present restrictions on the output of beer.

A FINE EXAMPLE.

We are glad to-day to publish a very nobly-written letter from a Correspondent, whose anonymity is safe in our keeping, with regard to the duty of sacrifice imposed at this hour on men of wealth, says The Times. It asks the rich men of the country, how otherwise than by example can the nation, as a whole, be led to understand the financial situation, to meet which the Victory Loan is being offered for subscription? and the writer, for one, gives a lead which he suggests others should follow. Out of his own fortune, estimated at £580,000, he has decided to realise one-fifth, say £120,000, and to subscribe with it for £150,000 of the new 4 per cent. SHOCKING CRIME AT THURLES.

SHOT DEAD IN THE STREET.

About half-an-hour after the conclusion of the Thurles Races yesterday, when the people attending had returned to town, and the streets were thronged with people, Mr. Michael Hunt, the local District Inspector of the Royal Irish Constabulary, was shot dead in the square at the top of Main street. He had been on duty at the races, and was standing on the street, when three shots, apparently from a revolver, rang out. Mr. Hunt fell mortally wounded, and expired in about ten minutes. Two wounds were found, one under the right shoulder and the other under the left lung.

The Press Association Thurles Correspondent telegraphs:—District Inspector Hunt, Royal Irish Constabulary, was shot dead in the Square, at Thurles, on Monday evening by armed men. A big crowd was returning from Thurles Races at the time, the District Inspector among them. The assailants, who wore revolvers, were not disguised, and disappeared in the crowd. No arrests have yet been made.

Another Correspondent telegraphed last night:—A tremendous sensation was caused in Thurles this evening when it became known that District Inspector Hunt had been shot dead in the public street. The crowds from the race meeting were at the time pouring into the town and making their way to the railway station. In the Square there were some thousands of people. Something in the nature of a panic occurred when the news became known, and, apprehending further trouble, the crowds scattered in all directions. No information could be obtained as to the actual shooting. There was no excitement or hostility displayed towards the police. The dastardly deed was done deliberately and in cold blood. It is stated that three shots were fired, two of which took effect in the officer's shoulder, with results which proved almost immediately fatal.

Mr. Hunt was seen to fall, and police ran to his assistance. He collapsed outside Stakelum's licensed premises, where he lay for some time.

Dr. Thomas Barry, a local practitioner, was summoned to the scene. Mr. Hunt appeared to be suffering great agony. He was moaning heavily, and breathed with difficulty. From the first it was apparent that there was little hope of his recovery, and he expired about ten or fifteen minutes after the shots were fired.

A few minutes later the body was taken into the shop of Mrs. Scully, a newsagent, in Bank street. On examination it was found that there were two bullet wounds in the back, one under the right shoulder, and the other close to the left lung. One of the Thurles priests administered the Last Sacraments before Mr. Hunt expired.

The District-Inspector resided near the railway station at Thurles. He was married, and leaves a widow and three children. The remains were removed to his home during the course of the evening.

There was considerable police and military activity in Thurles following the shooting outrage. All the licensed premises were closed by order of the authorities, and forces of military, with full equipment, took up positions in the town. Police, too, patrolled the streets, and the prevailing excitement and tension was intense.

District Inspector Hunt was about 50 years of age, and a native of County Sligo. He served in various parts of the country, and five years ago, while holding the position of Head Constable at Carrick-on-Suir, he received his promotion to the rank of District Inspector and was transferred to the charge of Thurles district. He was an efficient and much respected officer. As to the motive of the attack nothing can be ascertained. As one man described, it was simply "a murderous attack on an inoffensive officer."

Thurles is not included in the Military Area which was recently proclaimed in County Tipperary. District Inspector Wilson, of Templemore, has been placed in temporary charge of the Thurles district.

THE MURDER OF MR. MILLING, R.M.

MALICIOUS INJURY CLAIMS IN WESTPORT.

At Westport Quarter Sessions yesterday County Court Judge Doyle, K.C., heard evidence in the malicious injury claim by Mrs. Milling, widow of the late Mr. J. C. Milling, R.M., for £6,000 for the murder of her husband. The case attracted a large amount of interest. The evidence disclosed no new facts in connection with the murder. Mrs. Milling, Dr. O'Rourke, and Mr. Walsh, Inspector, R.I.C., and brother-in-law of the deceased, gave evidence of the death of Mr. Milling from a gunshot wound.

District Inspector Horgan, Castlebar; District Inspector Shore, late of Westport; Head Constable Allan, Westport, and Head Constable Hawkins, late of Castlebar, gave evidence of the unpopularity of deceased, of his being hissed and boohed following Crimes Act trials at Castlebar in which he adjudicated, and of his being under police protection.

Judge Doyle intimated that he would deliver judgment this morning.

POLICE CLAIMS FOR COMPENSATION.

The evidence in the cases of three claims for malicious injury by policemen under the recent Malicious Injury Act was then heard.

Sergeant William Higgins claimed £1,000 for injury inflicted by blows of sticks on his head at Louisburgh on Monday, 9th December, on the occasion of a Parliamentary election meeting. Constable Fury claimed £1,000 for injuries from blows of a stone during riots in Westport on 14th March on the occasion of a trial of young men by a Crimes Act Court. Sergeant Sheridan, Westport quay, claimed £500 for injuries sustained from a blow of a stick given him in Westport on 14th March, 1918, on the occasion of a police baton charge.

Judge Doyle intimated that he would complete the hearing of evidence in the Sheridan case to-day, and then deliver his judgment in the four cases.

The claims are defended by the Mayo County Council, Westport Rural District Council, and Westport Urban Council. A large number of ratepayers were present yesterday to claim exemption from any compensation that may be granted, and those will be heard to-day.

THE PRINCE OF WALES.

He had been on duty at the races, and was standing on the street, when three shots, apparently from a revolver, rang out. Mr. Hunt fell mortally wounded, and expired in about ten minutes. Two wounds were found, one under the right shoulder and the other under the left lung.

The Press Association Thurles Correspondent telegraphs:—District Inspector Hunt, Royal Irish Constabulary, was shot dead in the Square, at Thurles, on Monday evening by armed men. A big crowd was returning from Thurles Races at the time, the District Inspector among them. The assailants, who wore revolvers, were not disguised, and disappeared in the crowd. No arrests have yet been made.

Another Correspondent telegraphed last night:—A tremendous sensation was caused in Thurles this evening when it became known that District Inspector Hunt had been shot dead in the public street. The crowds from the race meeting were at the time pouring into the town and making their way to the railway station. In the Square there were some thousands of people. Something in the nature of a panic occurred when the news became known, and, apprehending further trouble, the crowds scattered in all directions. No information could be obtained as to the actual shooting. There was no excitement or hostility displayed towards the police. The dastardly deed was done deliberately and in cold blood. It is stated that three shots were fired, two of which took effect in the officer's shoulder, with results which proved almost immediately fatal.

Mr. Hunt was seen to fall, and police ran to his assistance. He collapsed outside Stakelum's licensed premises, where he lay for some time.

Dr. Thomas Barry, a local practitioner, was summoned to the scene. Mr. Hunt appeared to be suffering great agony. He was moaning heavily, and breathed with difficulty. From the first it was apparent that there was little hope of his recovery, and he expired about ten or fifteen minutes after the shots were fired.

A few minutes later the body was taken into the shop of Mrs. Scully, a newsagent, in Bank street. On examination it was found that there were two bullet wounds in the back, one under the right shoulder, and the other close to the left lung. One of the Thurles priests administered the Last Sacraments before Mr. Hunt expired.

The District-Inspector resided near the railway station at Thurles. He was married, and leaves a widow and three children. The remains were removed to his home during the course of the evening.

There was considerable police and military activity in Thurles following the shooting outrage. All the licensed premises were closed by order of the authorities, and forces of military, with full equipment, took up positions in the town. Police, too, patrolled the streets, and the prevailing excitement and tension was intense.

District Inspector Hunt was about 50 years of age, and a native of County Sligo. He served in various parts of the country, and five years ago, while holding the position of Head Constable at Carrick-on-Suir, he received his promotion to the rank of District Inspector and was transferred to the charge of Thurles district. He was an efficient and much respected officer. As to the motive of the attack nothing can be ascertained. As one man described, it was simply "a murderous attack on an inoffensive officer."

Thurles is not included in the Military Area which was recently proclaimed in County Tipperary. District Inspector Wilson, of Templemore, has been placed in temporary charge of the Thurles district.

THE MURDER OF MR. MILLING, R.M.

MALICIOUS INJURY CLAIMS IN WESTPORT.

At Westport Quarter Sessions yesterday County Court Judge Doyle, K.C., heard evidence in the malicious injury claim by Mrs. Milling, widow of the late Mr. J. C. Milling, R.M., for £6,000 for the murder of her husband. The case attracted a large amount of interest. The evidence disclosed no new facts in connection with the murder. Mrs. Milling, Dr. O'Rourke, and Mr. Walsh, Inspector, R.I.C., and brother-in-law of the deceased, gave evidence of the death of Mr. Milling from a gunshot wound.

District Inspector Horgan, Castlebar; District Inspector Shore, late of Westport; Head Constable Allan, Westport, and Head Constable Hawkins, late of Castlebar, gave evidence of the unpopularity of deceased; of his being hissed and boohed following Crimes Act trials at Castlebar in which he adjudicated, and of his being under police protection.

Judge Doyle intimated that he would deliver judgment this morning.

POLICE CLAIMS FOR COMPENSATION.

The evidence in the cases of three claims for malicious injury by policemen under the recent Malicious Injury Act was then heard.

Sergeant William Higgins claimed £1,000 for injury inflicted by blows of sticks on his head at Louisburgh on Monday, 9th December, on the occasion of a Parliamentary election meeting; Constable Fury claimed £1,000 for injuries from blows of a stone during riots in Westport on 14th March on the occasion of a trial of young men by a Crimes Act Court; Sergeant Sheridan, Westport quay, claimed £500 for injuries sustained from a blow of a stick given him in Westport on 14th March, 1918, on the occasion of a police baton charge.

Judge Doyle intimated that he would complete the hearing of evidence in the Sheridan case to-day, and then deliver his judgment in the four cases.

The claims are defended by the Mayo County Council, Westport Rural District Council, and Westport Urban Council. A large number of ratepayers were present yesterday to claim exemption from any compensation that may be granted, and those will be heard to-day.

THE PRINCE OF WALES.

The Prince of Wales left Paddington yesterday evening for Wales. He was wearing the uniform of the Welsh Guards. People who had assembled at the station heartily cheered the Prince, who appeared at the window and acknowledged the greeting with a military salute.

The Prince of Wales reached Cardiff in the evening, and experienced [illegible] ovations. There was an interesting Civic welcome, and the We[illegible] Prince is the new Colonel-in-Chief, posted a guard of honour and band outside the station.

[illegible] Marine whose vessels had been torpedoed during the war, and on their behalf the Secretary of the Cardiff Branch of the Seamen's and Firemen's Union presented an album containing photographs of local celebrities and local views. A procession was formed to Cardiff Castle, where the Prince is the guest of the Marquis and Marchioness of Bute. The drive was one continuous ovation.

MARSHAL JOFFRE AND GENERAL PERSHING.

Marshal Joffre and General Pershing have arrived in England, and will to-day visit Oxford to receive University honours.

NATIONAL LIFEBOAT INSTITUTION.

FLAG DAY ON 14th AUGUST.

The Executive Committee of the City of Dublin Branch of the National Life-Boat met yesterday at their offices, 110 Grafton street, Dublin. Mr. J. Hume Dudgeon presided, and there were also present:—Mr. E. Tenison Collins, J.P.; Major Arthur Whewell, Mr. E. B. Alpin, Sir Gabriel Stokes, K.C.S.I.; Mr. R. Noel Guinness (Hon. Sec.), and Mr. B. J. Newcombe (Assistant Sec.).

Apologies were received from Mr. Howard R. Guinness and Mr. Richard Jones.

The Chairman of the Special Effort (Major Arthur Whewell) read a letter from the Chief Commissioner of Police, Dublin, allocating Thursday, 14th August next, for the Dublin Life-Boat Flag Day, and for Kingstown, Blackrock, and Dalkey, Saturday, 16th August, with permits enclosed. The Committee confirmed the arrangements of the Special Effort.

An important letter was read from the parent Institution, stating that the financial year shall in the case of all branches close on the 30th September each year, commencing with the present year, 1919, instead of 31st December, as heretofore. The Committee decided to comply with the new regulations.

The meeting then dealt with routine correspondence and finance.

ARRESTS IN LIMERICK.

A strong force of military from Limerick made four arrests on Sunday, and lodged the prisoners in the New Barracks, whither they were conveyed by motor lorry in the evening. The names of the men arrested are:—Joseph Keane, Chairman Limerick Board of Guardians; Patrick Quinlivan, Alphonsus Macnamara, and James Scully.

HEAVY BOLSHEVIK DEFEATS.

GENERAL DENIKIN'S PROGRESS.

VAST AREA LIBERATED.

The War Office issues the following:—The advance of volunteer forces continues with great success along the whole front, from the Caspian Sea to the Sea of Azov. In the direction of Astrakhan Bolshevik detachments are offering little resistance, though the condition of the country entails slow progress. Towards Tsaritsin the volunteer forces have inflicted a severe defeat on the 10th Bolshevik Army, which has lost 75 per cent. of its effectives. To the north-west, in the area of the Middle Don, the Bolshevik 14th and 23rd Divisions suffered heavy losses, and dispersed into small groups, some of which were dealt with by local inhabitants. The 16th Division has also received a severe knock. Contact has been obtained with the Don Cossacks, who rose against the Bolsheviks, thus cutting the Bolshevik 9th Army in two, and giving General Denikin a reinforcement of 22,500 men. In the Donetz Basin, with assistance of tanks, progress has been made towards Kharkov, and the Bolshevik 13th Army is in full retreat. The whole of the valuable coal and iron fields have been captured. Further south the volunteer force are advancing towards Yekaterinoslav, and owing to a threat to their communications the Bolsheviks are reported to be evacuating the Crimea. The casualties of the Volunteer Army have been slight, and the Army has been well received by the inhabitants of liberated territories.

GENERAL DENIKIN'S VICTORIOUS PROGRESS.

Since the beginning of his offensive General Denikin has gained nearly ninety thousand square miles of territory. His total captures up to the beginning of June are 32,000 prisoners, 348 guns, 550 machine guns, and 11 armoured trains, besides an enormous amount of war material, including 50,000 rifles and over 12 transport wagons.

ESTHONIA ATTACKED BY GERMAN AND LETTISH TROOPS.

Press Association's war special telegram from Copenhagen yesterday state that operations have been begun against the Esthonians by Lettish troops, and that hostilities between Esthonian troops and the German Baltic Landsewehr were re-opened on Saturday.

POLISH-UKRAINIAN SETTLEMENT.

According to Lemberg papers, the armistice terms between the Poles and the Ukrainians include the fixing of a temporay line of demarcation extending from Zaloyiec, along the River Seret, to Tarnapole, which remains in Polish hands, and to the frontier occupied by the Rumanians. More than a million Poles are left on the Ukrainian side of the line of demarcation.

GERMAN ATTACK ON THE POLES.

Reuter's Agency learns from a Polish source that according to a telegram received this morning from Warsaw, the Germans are still continuing their activities against the Poles in Upper Silesia.

NEW ITALIAN CABINET.

A Rome telegram, dated Monday, states:—The King has accepted the resignation of Signor Orlando, and has entrusted Signor Nitti with the formation of a new Cabinet. The new Government will be constituted as follows:—Premier and Minister of the Interior, Signor Nitti; Foreign Affairs, Signor Tittoni; Minister for the Colonies, Signor Lugi Rossi; Minister of Justice and Public Worship, Signor Mortora; Finance, Signor Tedesco; Treasury, Signor Scharzer; Marine and War, Rear-Admiral Sechi; Public Instruction, Signor Baccelli; Public Works, Signor Partam; Transports, Signor Devito; Agriculture, Signor Visoceui; Industry and Commerce, Labour and Food, Signor Dante Ferros; Posts and Telegraphs, Signor Chimeinly; Military Assistance and War Pensions, Signor Dacomo; Liberated Provinces, Signor Cesare Nava. The Ministers will take the oath to-morrow morning.

THE AEROPLANE LINEN DEAL.

BELFAST MANUFACTURERS' STATEMENT.

An authoritative statement of the position of the Ulster linen trade has been issued for publication over the signature of Mr. W. J. P. Wilson, Secretary Belfast Linen Merchants' Association and Allied Organisations, in the course of which it is stated:—

The linen trade was closely "controlled" at every stage, and costs were checked by Government experts. The price given to the trade for the cloth was fixed by the Government and not by the trade. So much for the charge of "profiteering" on the first sale. The Government was left with a stock of 40 million yards of cloth. This large stock might have been much less, little more than half, if the Government had acted on the suggestions made to them by the accredited representatives of the trade in September last, but these were not accepted by the Aircraft Department. Soon after the Armistice the Government tried to insist on the reductions offered in September being made in December, but were told that it was too late, and that the goods were too far advanced in manufacture to allow of such reduction.

NO EFFORT AT "PROFITEERING."

After the contracts were completed the linen trade, being desirous that such a large stock should be disposed of so as to cause the minimum of disturbance in market values, approached the Government with a view to purchase. Several proposals were put forward by the trade, the final offer being 1s. 1d. per yard, and to realise the goods on behalf of the Government, giving the Government 75 per cent. of the profits. At no time was the absurd figure of 3½d. per yard offered by the trade. From the beginning till the end of the negotiations the Government showed no desire whatever to arrive at any settlement or to make any deal with the trade. The Government refused to give the slightest indication of the prices or terms which they were willing to accept. The trade was told simply that it must proceed by tender, and to each and every tender made a curt refusal was the only answer.

In any other deal of this magnitude—even with a Government Department—a bona-fide buyer, such as the linen trade certainly was, would undoubtedly have got some indication of what the Government would accept, but all through this matter no indication was given of what the Government would consider a fair price.

REDEEMING ASPECT OF THE SALE.

As regards the present sale, the trade views the transaction with absolute equanimity; in fact, with a certain amount of satisfaction. The stock will now be in the hands of a man who is, presumably, desirous of selling it, and who will be prepared to quote prices and give particulars of quantities—in short, to deal with the stocks as any other business man would who had stocks to sell. This will be a distinct and very much appreciated advance on Government methods. In connection with this sale, there is no panic in Belfast, nor anything approaching it, not a spindle nor a loom will be stopped in consequence.

The linen trade is accused of having attempted to "crab" the market by spreading misrepresentations regarding the character of the goods. The linen trade merely stated the facts in this connection, and they are now restated as follows:—This stock of 40 million yards represents only three months production of the trade (not three years as alleged), and covers only one group of the large variety of goods produced by the trade. All the goods are of a fairly uniform weight, but vary very greatly in fineness. This weight is that which is ordinarily known in the trade as "fronting linens." It is too heavy for use as handkerchiefs, and it is equally too light for household purposes, such as pillow linen and sheeting. The great bulk of the goods is not suitable for bleaching, but only for use in the brown state, and is not of a weight suitable for men's clothing in the tropics or anywhere else. If the large department stores and retailers have, as stated in the interviews, shown an unwillingness to handle these goods, it may reasonably be supposed that it was because they found them unsuitable for general trade, and not for any of the reasons which are hinted at. If they had seen a probable profit in handling these goods, they would certainly have bought them direct from the Government, as they might have done freely at any time since the stocks were first announced for sale. If the facts of the sale are actually as reported in the Press the Government are to be congratulated on the price obtained.

"Finally," says Mr. Wilson, "I am instructed to deny absolutely the existence of any 'ring' to prevent the purchase of these goods, such as has been widely hinted at."

NATIONALISATION OF COAL.

LORD INCHCAPE'S STRONG PROTEST.

Speaking at a meeting of the Imperial Commercial Association in London yesterday, Lord Inchcape said that one of the most vital of all our industries was threatened with what was called nationalisation. He called it "denationalisation," because, whoever might benefit from it, the nation was bound to suffer. Under this proposed system, a single class would get all the benefits, would manage the industry to suit itself, and would hold the country at its mercy. Nationalisation meant syndicalism. It was the doctrine that labour created all the wealth, and was entitled to all the rewards. It would mean the establishment of a privileged autocracy of Labour, which would be as indifferent to the nation as any of the autocracies of the past. If the State took over the mining industry there was no other great industry which they might not take on similar insufficient grounds.

GERMANY ACCEPTS THE TREATY.

"YIELDING TO OVERWHELMING FORCE."

PROBABLE DATE OF SIGNATURE.

REPORTED CABINET CRISIS AT WEIMAR.

STRONG OPPOSITION OF GERMAN GENERALS.

The following, says a Paris telegram dated Monday, is the text of the Note in which the Germans agree to sign the Treaty of Peace:—

German Peace Delegation, Versailles,
June 23, 1919, No. 88.

SIR,—The Minister for Foreign Affairs has instructed me to communicate to Your Excellency the following:—

The Government of the German Republic has seen with consternation, from the last communication of the Allied and Associated Governments, that the latter are resolved to wrest from Germany, by sheer force, even the acceptance of those conditions of peace which, though devoid of material significance, pursue the object of taking away its honour from the German people.

The honour of the German people will remain untouched by any act of violence.

The German people, after the frightful sufferings of the last few years, lacks all means of defending its honour by external action. Yielding to overwhelming force, but without on that account abandoning its view in regard to the unheard of injustice of the conditions of peace, the Government of the German Republic, therefore, declares that it is ready to accept and sign the conditions of peace imposed by the Allied and Associated Governments. Pray accept, etc. (Signed) VON HANIEL.

His Excellency M. Clemenceau, President of the Peace Conference.

Earlier in the day the following Notes were exchanged:—

FROM THE GERMANS.

The Minister for Foreign Affairs instructs me to beg the Allied and Associated Governments to prolong for 48 hours the time-limit for answering your Note communicated yesterday evening, and likewise the time-limit for answering the Note of June 16th. It was only on Saturday, after great difficulty, that a new Cabinet was formed, which could come to an agreement to declare its willingness to sign the Treaty as regards nearly all the provisions. The National Assembly has expressed confidence in this Cabinet. The Government must come into contact anew with the National Assembly in order to take this grievous decision in such manner as only it can be taken—in accordance with democratic principles, and with the internal situation in Germany.—(Signed) VON HANIEL.

M. CLEMENCEAU'S REPLY.

June 23rd.

The Allied and Associated Governments beg to acknowledge the receipt of your communication. After full consideration of your request, they regret that it is not possible to extend the time already granted to make known your decision relative to signing the Peace Treaty without any reservation.—(Signed) CLEMENCEAU.

The Exchange Company added to the announcement that an extension of time had been refused. "An order has been given for the troops to start onward to-night at 7.1."

SIGNATURE UNCONDITIONAL.

A Reuter's Copenhagen message says:—A Weimar telegram announces that the National Assembly has passed by a large majority a proposal by the Government unconditionally to sign the Peace Treaty.

HOW THE GERMAN NOTES WERE DELIVERED.

Writing on Monday night from Paris, the Press Association's Correspondent says:—The eleventh-hour request on the part of the Germans for a forty-eight hours' extension of the time limit for signing the Treaty was delivered in the middle of the night, under the most dramatic circumstances. At 2.30 a.m., a French officer arrived, post haste, from Versailles, bringing the letter from Herr von Haniel, which was immediately delivered into the hands of the chef du Cabinet of M. Dutasta, Secretary-General of the Peace Conference. M. Dutasta took steps to awaken M. Clemenceau, President Wilson, and Mr. Lloyd George, and after the contents of the letter had been made known to them, it was decided to hold a meeting at 9 a.m. to consider the Allies' reply.

This evening's Note agreeing to sign the Peace Treaty unconditionally was delivered, first, to Colonel Henry, the chief French officer attached to the German delegation. He hurried to the French Foreign Office in Paris in a fast motor car, and there handed over the message. M. Dutasta at once had it translated and copied, after which copies were despatched as speedily as possible to M. Clemenceau, President Wilson, and Mr. Lloyd George. It appears to be certain that the actual signature of the Treaty will not take place before Wednesday, or, more probably, Thursday.

DATE OF SIGNATURE DOUBTFUL.

Telegraphing last night from Paris the Press Association's Correspondent says:—

The Council of Three announce that the Germans have agreed to sign the Peace Treaty.

The date of signature has not yet been fixed, but it will probably be Wednesday.

In a later message the correspondent says:—

It it now very doubtful whether the Peace Treaty can be signed as soon as Wednesday, as neither the Germans nor the Italians have yet appointed their plenipotentiaries. The Treaty has to be printed on parchment, and it will be necessary to examine the credentials of the hundreds of plenipotentiaries who will have to sign it.

A Press Association message, dated Paris, Monday, 8.20 p.m., says:—The Council of Three has not yet been able to decide on the date of the signature of the Peace Treaty at Versailles; but, as already stated, it cannot take place before Wednesday, and is not likely to do so before Thursday. The German Delegation, which may leave Weimar now at any moment, must be given time to reach Versailles, as it has now been ascertained that Herr von Haniel is not empowered to sign the Treaty. Italy, it is now understood, will be represented at the signature of the Treaty by Baron Sonnino, the Marchese Imperiale, and Signor Crespi, who are, all three, in Paris.

THE NEWS AT DOWNING STREET.

The Press Association states that official news that Germany had consented to sign the Peace Terms was received at 10 Downing street early last evening.

Mr. Bonar Law and Lord Milner, two of the signatories on behalf of Great Britain, will leave London this morning, arriving in Paris in the evening. The other three signatories on behalf of Great Britain, namely, the Prime Minister, Mr. Balfour, and Mr. Barnes, are already in Paris.

HOW THE NEWS WAS RECEIVED.

By order of the Military Governor of Paris, Germany's agreement to sign the Treaty was greeted at 6.45 last evening by artillery salvoes. At the same time the sirens installed on public buildings at the time of the Gotha raids were blown.

NO DEMONSTRATIONS IN LONDON.

The news that Germany had agreed to sign the Treaty was very quietly received in London. There were no demonstrations or scenes, such as occurred after the receipt of the news of the signing of the armistice. In some suburbs, however, large crowds assembled, and fireworks were discharged.

GUNS FIRED AT COPENHAGEN.

A Copenhagen message says:—The first indication that the Germans had agreed to sign the Peace Treaty reached Copenhagen in a somewhat startling manner, by the firing of guns and the blowing of sirens on the vessels of the British Fleet in the harbour. The sudden outburst caused a sensation in Copenhagen.

GERMAN NOTE OF RESERVATION.

The following is the text of the German Note received on Sunday afternoon in Paris:—

German Peace Delegation,
VERSAILLES, JUNE 22, 1919.

Mr. President,—The Imperial Minister of Foreign Affairs has instructed me to communicate the following to Your Excellency:—

The Government of the German Republic has, from the moment when the Peace Conditions of the Allied and Associated Governments were made known to it, let no doubt subsist as to the fact that the Government, in harmony with the whole German people, must regard these conditions as being in sharp contradiction with the principle which was accepted by the Allied and Associated Powers on the one hand, and Germany on the other hand, as being binding in accordance with the law of nations, for the peace, before the conclusion of the armistice. Relying upon this principle of justice, which was agreed upon between the parties to the negotiations, and assisted by a clear exposition of conditions in Germany, the Government has left no stone unturned in order to arrive at a direct verbal exchange of opinions, and thus to obtain some mitigation of the unbearably hard conditions, which might render it possible for the Government of the German Republic to sign the Treaty of Peace without reservations, and to guarantee its execution.

These endeavours of the Government of the German Republic, which were undertaken in the interest of the peace of the world, and the reconciliation of peoples have failed, owing to the rigorous insistence on the conditions of peace. The far-reaching Counter-Proposals of the German Delegation have only in certain points received any acceptance. The concessions made only reduce the severity of the conditions in a small degree.

The Allied and Associated Governments have, in an ultimatum which expires on June 23, confronted the Government of the German Republic with the decision either to sign the Treaty of Peace presented by them, or to refuse to sign. In the latter case, a completely defenceless people has been threatened with the forcible imposition of the conditions of peace already presented and with an increase of the heavy burdens. The German people does not wish for the resumption of the bloody war. It honestly wishes for a lasting peace.

APPEAL TO INALIENABLE RIGHT.

In view of the attitude of the Allied and Associated Governments, the German people has no other force in its hands, save to appeal to the eternally inalienable right to an independent life which belongs to the German people, as to all peoples. The Government of the German Republic are unable to support any detractions from this sacred right of the German people, by the application of force. The Government can only hope for support through the conscience of mankind. No people, including those of the Allied and Associated Powers, could expect the German people to agree, with thorough conviction, to an instrument of peace whereby living members of the very body of the German people are to be cut off without consultation of the population concerned; whereby the dignity of the German State is to be permanently impaired, and whereby unendurable economic and financial burdens are to be laid upon the German people. The German Government has received passionate expressions of opinion from the population in the districts to be cut off from the East, to the effect that they (the population) will oppose themselves to the separation of these districts—which have for the greater part been German for many centuries—by all means they possess.

DECLINING RESPONSIBILITY.

The German Government, therefore, finds itself compelled to decline all responsibility for any difficulties which may arise from the resistance of the inhabitants against their separation from Germany. If the Government of the German Republic is, nevertheless, ready to sign the conditions of the Allies, with the above-mentioned reservation, yet this is not done of its free will. The Government of the German Republic solemnly declares that its attitude is to be understood in the sense that it yields to force, being resolved to spare the German people, whose sufferings are unspeakable, a new war, the shattering of its national unity by further occupation of German territories, terrible famine for women and children, and mercilessly prolonged retention of the prisoners of war.

THE GERMAN PRISONERS.

The German people expects, in view of the grievous burdens which it is to take upon itself, that all German military and civilian prisoners, beginning on July 1st and thereafter, in uninterrupted succession, and within a short period, shall be restored. Germany gave back her enemies' prisoners of war within two months.

The Government of the German Republic engages to fulfil the conditions of peace imposed upon Germany. It desires, however, in this solemn moment, to express itself with unreserved clearness, in order to meet in advance any accusation of untruthfulness that may now, or later, be made against Germany. The conditions imposed exceed the measure of that which Germany can, in fact, perform. The Government of the German Republic, therefore, feels itself bound to announce that it makes all reservations, and declines all responsibility, as regards the consequences which may be threatened against Germany, when, as is bound to happen, the impossibility of carrying out the conditions comes to light, even though the German capacity to fulfil them is stretched to the utmost.

RESPONSIBILITY AND OFFENDERS RESERVED.

Germany further lays the greatest emphasis on the declaration that she cannot accept Article 231 of the Treaty of Peace, which requires Germany to admit herself to be the sole and only author of the war, and does not cover this article by her signature. It consequently follows, without further argument, that Germany must also decline to recognise that the burden should be placed upon her, on the score of the responsibility for the war, which has unjustly been laid at her door.

Likewise, it is equally impossible for a German to reconcile it with his dignity and honour to accept and execute Articles 227 to 230, by which Germany is required to give up to the Allied and Associated Powers, for trial, individuals among the German people who are accused by the Allied and Associated Powers of the breach of international laws, and of committing acts contrary to the customs of war.

THE COLONIES.

Further, the Government of the German Republic makes a distinct protest against the taking away of all the colonial possessions of Germany, and against the reasons given therefor, which permanently deny to Germany fitness for colonial activity, although the contrary is clearly established, and irrefutable evidence to this effect is contained in the observations of the German Peace Delegation on the Conditions of Peace.

A "MODEST REQUEST."

The Government of the German Republic assumes that it is in accordance with the desires of the Allied and Associated Governments that it has spoken openly, both as regards what concerns its good-will, and also as regards its reservations. Therefore, in view of the condition of constraint into which the German people are forced by the requirements of the Allies—a condition of constraint such as has never been inflicted on any people, in any manner more crushing, and more disastrous in its consequences—and relying on the express undertaking of the Allied and Associated Governments in their Memorandum of June 16th, 1919, the German Government believes itself to be entitled to address the following modest request to the Allied and Associated Governments, in the expectation that the Allied and Associated Governments will consider the following declaration as an integral portion of the Treaty:—

"Within two years, counting from the day when the Treaty is signed, the Allied and Associated Governments will submit the present Treaty to the High Council of the Powers, as constituted by the League of Nations, according to Article 4, for the purpose of subsequent examination. Before this High Council the German plenipotentiaries are to enjoy the same rights and privileges as the representatives of the other contracting Powers of the present Treaty. This Council shall decide in regard to those conditions of the present Treaty which impair the rights of self-determination of the co-German people, and also in regard to the stipulation whereby the free economic development of Germany on a footing of equal rights is impeded."

The Government of the German Republic accordingly gives the declaration of its consent, as required by the Note of June 16, 1919, in the following form:—

"The Government of the German Republic is ready to sign the Treaty of Peace, without, however, recognising thereby that the German people was the author of the war, and without undertaking any responsibility for delivering persons in accordance with Articles 227 to 230 of the Treaty of Peace."

Weimar, June 21st 1919.
(Signed) BAUER, President of the Imperial Ministry.

Accept, Mr. President, the expression of my distinguished consideration.
(Signed) VON HANIEL.

TRANSATLANTIC FLIGHT.

PROBABLE FLIGHT TO-DAY.

A Reuter's St. John's, Newfoundland, telegram, dated Monday, says:—Admiral Kerr states to-day that he may fly to-morrow, as the weather conditions have somewhat improved, or on Wednesday, if to-morrow is unfavourable.

Mr. Raynham, the pilot of the Martinsyde machine, says that possibly he will not fly until the next full moon, about July 13th, using the period meanwhile for exhaustive trials.

THE GERMAN CABINET.

REPORTED RESIGNATION.

UNDER PRESSURE OF THE GENERALS.

CRITICAL SITUATION.

Shortly before going to Press, says the Press Association's Berlin Correspondent in a message dated Monday, the Vossische Zeitung learns that the Bauer Cabinet resigned before the meeting of the National Assembly to-day.

The paper is unable to obtain any confirmation of the report, but it is said that the Cabinet's resignation occurred under the pressure of leading Generals, who are opposed to the unconditional signing of the Peace Treaty.

The same correspondent, writing later, says—According to a telegram from Weimar, General Maerker, with his staff, appeared at this morning's meeting of the various Parties, and made a pessimistic statement on the situation. All the Generals and Staff Officers of the Army have declared to the Government that they are opposed to the unconditional signing of the Treaty, and that if the Government, nevertheless, signed it, including the points affecting the country's honour, they would retire from their posts, being unable to reconcile such a step with the honour of the German Officers' Corps.

The National Assembly at Weimar met to-day at noon, but up to 3.45 this afternoon no report had been received in Berlin of the result of to-day's proceedings. It is, however, understood that Herr Bauer is to explain that, as the Entente has rejected Germany's reservations, the Government is obliged to ask the National Assembly for more extensive powers. Germany, he will declare, is powerless. The Cabinet, therefore, advocates signing, and asks the Assembly for its approval, being convinced that the consequences of oppression of the German people will recoil on the heads of its authors.

DESPAIR AT WEIMAR.

The Weimar Correspondent of the Vossische Zeitung says:—The Entente's rejection of our reservation, and its refusal to prolong the time-limit have provoked an extremely dangerous crisis. It can, without exaggeration, be said that a feeling of absolute despair prevails in Government and Assembly circles at Weimar. This feeling is intensified by the resistance of the military leaders to the surrender clauses.

A Cabinet crisis has been caused by the decision of the Centre, by a considerable majority, to reject the Peace Treaty under the altered circumstances. A bare majority for signing is still possible, but it is unlikely that a Cabinet crisis can be averted.

According to the Weimar Correspondent of the Tageblatt, however, the Centre has decided, by 68 votes to 14, in favour of accepting the Peace Terms unconditionally.

MILITARY REACTIONISTS.

RUMOURS OF IMPENDING COUP.

The Press Association's special correspondent in Berlin, writing on June 23rd, says:—Berlin has for some days been a prey to uncontrollable rumours of an impending military coup, the object of which is to set up a military dictatorship. Telegrams from high military quarters, and articles in the Conservative Press, are considered to point in this direction.

The Deutsche Tageszeitung exhorts the military, especially the Volunteers, to hold out.

The headquarters in Silesia, according to the Freiheit, is busy calling men to the colours. The same paper calls attention to a speech by the General commanding the Guard Corps, blaming the Hinterland for the collapse of the Army last autumn. The General referred to the order recently given to defend the barracks in Berlin, saying that he would punish most severely anyone disregarding this order. The newspapers also refer to the rumours of an impending proclamation of an independent State in the East.

MORE GERMAN WARSHIPS SUNK

IN GERMAN HARBOURS.

A Press Association telegram from Paris yesterday says:—It was reported in Conference circles this afternoon that the Germans had sunk the remainder of their warships which were lying in German harbours.

Reuter's Agency is officially informed that communication is now in progress with Paris as to what action is to be taken in the case of Admiral von Reuter, who, in the meantime, with other officers and men of the late German High Seas Fleet, is interned under a strong guard. It is confirmed that the Admiralty has reports showing that the scuttling of the fleet was entirely the work of the German Admiral, and was not carried out as a result of instructions from Berlin.

FRANCE'S CLAIMS.

The Petit Journal, says the Press Association Paris Correspondent, recalling that France claimed portion of the German Fleet interned at Scapa, voices the hope that her Allies will recognise that some compensation is now due to her. The paper demands that France should retain as her property enemy submarines entrusted to her care, and that a number of serviceable German merchant ships be handed her.

A Press Association Paris telegram of yesterday says:—The Budget Committee of the Chamber has decided to send a delegation to the Prime Minister to ask him: (1) Whether the Government is in a position to furnish immediately an explanation regarding the conditions in which the German Fleet was sunk. (2) What measures the Government intends to take to remedy the detriment caused to France by the destruction of the Fleet, part of which was to have been assigned to her.

OFFICERS AND MEN TO BE INTERNED.

Reuter's Agency learns that about 1,800 German officers and men are on their way to a place of internment in connection with the scuttling of the German Fleet.

GERMAN VIEW OF THE INCIDENT.

A Copenhagen telegram, dated Sunday, states:

The Zwolf Uhr Blatt, commenting on the sinking of the German ships at Scapa Flow, says:—The German Naval officers and men who did this deed must be forgiven. They acted in the spirit in which they were born and brought up. The paper considers it possible that the destruction of the fleet will be received more with approval and admiration than anger, and concludes:—Whether this event will have any consequences for Germany is momentarily uncertain. Should, however, this be the case, this fact would be the more regrettable, because for the sake of a fine gesture we should be confronted with the necessity of undertaking still higher financial obligations.

THE NEWS IN GERMANY.

An Exchange telegram says that the news of the destruction of the German Navy in Scapa Flow arrived at Weimar at the end of Sunday afternoon's sitting of the National Assembly, and caused great nervousness in Government circles, where it was feared that the Allies would use the opportunity to break the Armistice agreement. Among the Conservatives, however, the news was received with joy.

LORD CLANCARTY'S AFFAIRS.

ARRANGEMENTS FOR PAYMENT OF ALL DEBTS.

The creditors of Lord Clancarty met yesterday at the London Bankruptcy Court, and elected Mr. S. F. Salaman as trustee to administer the estate in bankruptcy.

The Senior Official Receiver reported that as the receiving order made at the instance of a creditor Lord Clancarty was described as of Cadogan Gardens, S.W. The Countess had written to the effect that her husband had not lived there for some time, and that she strongly objected to the notices of these bankruptcy proceedings being sent there. The debtor had not surrendered to the receiving order, and he had no information relating to his affairs to give to that meeting.

It was stated that many of the claims against Lord Clancarty and Lord Kilconnel were based on transactions in respect of which there had been no actual money consideration. They had been induced to give their signatures by a third person, now deceased, whose affairs were also before the Court. It was further said that arrangements were pending by the family trustees for the payment of all debts in full.

RATHFARNHAM SHOOTING AFFAIR.

Early this morning information was received in Dublin that a man named O'Brien, whose address is given as 32 Hatch lane, had been admitted to the Royal City of Dublin Hospital, Baggot street, suffering from a bullet wound in the back of the left leg. It appears that he was found by members of the Royal Irish Constabulary lying on the road at Ballyboden, near Rathfarnham, at about 11.30 last night. The circumstances connected with the incident are not yet known.

THE VICTORY LOAN.

In view of the urgent necessity of concentrating the national financial effort upon the Victory Loan, the Chancellor of the Exchequer has issued an appeal to all persons desirous of raising capital for other purposes to postpone such issues until after the Victory Loan subscription lists have been closed.

SPECIAL EXTRA.

FRENCH FLAGS BURNT IN BERLIN

BY GUARDS' CAVALRY CORPS.

The Press Association's Copenhagen Correspondent writes:—A telegram from Berlin of to-day's date says that troops of the Guards Cavalry Corps entered the arsenal this morning, took out the French flags captured in 1870 and 1914, and burned them before the monument of Frederick the Great.

The Press Association's Berlin Correspondent says:—According to one account of the destruction of the French flags captured in 1870, the officer responsible for their removal from the arsenal, and for having them soaked in paraffin and burned, was named Simon. He was accompanied by ten soldiers in Field Grey uniforms. When the flags were taken to the monument of Frederick the Great the officer made a short speech, declaring:—"We will never give the conquered trophies back to the rascally French." "Deutschland ueber Alles" was sung while the flags were set afire. It is declared that several French orders, including one of Napoleon I., were also taken away.

SUMMERS V. MARRIOTT CONTEST.

At the National Sporting Club, London, last night, in his contest with Summers, Marriott, who was slightly in front on points, was disqualified for holding in the ninth round.

FRENCH PREMIER CONGRATULATED.

All the Ministers, says a Paris telegram, went to the Ministry of War at seven o'clock last evening to congratulate M. Clemenceau.

ST. ANDREW BABIES' CLUB.

THE ANNUAL MEETING.

The annual meeting of the St. Andrew Babies' Club was held yesterday afternoon at 42 Fitzwilliam square, Dublin, the Lord Chief Justice in the chair.

LORD CHIEF JUSTICE.

The Chairman said that the Club was one of those little charities which worked very quietly and unobtrusively, and, at the same time, during the eight years of its existence had done an immense amount of good in a very poor district of the city. He looked with pleasure at the various activities of the Club in combating the high infant mortality and protecting infant life in the No. 4 South City Dispensary District, in providing coal for the poorest families and cooked food for mothers. He regretted to see in the report that it had not been possible to resume the girls' recreation class. He could not quite understand why that should not be possible, and why there should not be a sufficient number of ladies who would be interested not only in the mothers and in the children, but in the future mothers of the race. He hoped the class would not be eliminated from the objects of the Club, because it seemed to him to be one of the best objects to which the Society had devoted itself. The Club, so far, seemed not only to be able to pay its way, but to have a little money on hands, but they could see that that balance arose, to a great extent, from special causes, and there was no reason why they should relax their efforts. Beyond all doubt, work of that kind in the whole City of Dublin, and especially in No. 4 South District, would require very strong, and constant, and persistent effort, and it was by increasing their interest in the Club and their determination to make it more successful in the future, and that they would do everything to inspire a spirit of enthusiasm in the work, in that way taking care of the young people and their mothers, that the Club would continue in progress and prosperity. (Applause.)

THE REPORT.

Dr. Bethel Solomons read the report for 1917-18, which stated that since its inception 338 women, with their children, had passed through the Club. The average weekly attendance in 1917 was—65 women, 35 infants, 30 young children, and 32 older children; and in 1918 was—70 women, 40 infants, 30 young children, and 34 older children. All delicate babies were seen by the doctor at the weekly clinic, and there were in all 3,450 such examinations. Since last report there were 40 births in the Club. Nurse Duffy paid 1,600 visits to the members' homes; 22 children were sent to the general hospitals, 34 to the Eye and Ear Hospital, and 24 women were treated at Mercer's Hospital. 634 bags of coal were sold at a special price, and in 1917 24 bags of free coal were secured from the Mansion House Committee and given to the poorest. Through the kindness of the Department of Agriculture, the Model Farm supplied 12 quarts of milk daily for delicate and bottle-fed babies. 443 dinners were given to expectant and nursing mothers, also milk in necessitous cases. The Committee had in contemplation a scheme of co-operation with the National Board in providing medical inspection for pupils attending schools in St. Andrew's district. Referring to the gift of milk from the Department, Dr. Solomons said the sick children who received that milk thrived on it and became well, but when they could not get it they became ill again. No words could describe the article sold as milk in some of the shops in the city.

MR. JUSTICE PIM.

Mr. Justice Pim, in proposing that the report and balance sheet be adopted, referred to juvenile crime, and said that malnutrition, not necessarily of the child, but of the parents, perhaps for generations back, was often the cause because, as everyone knew, body had an influence over mind as mind had over body. He emphasised the necessity of medical inspections in schools, as there were in some other countries, and ought to be everywhere. (Hear, hear.) He was told that there were nine of those clubs in the nine dispensary districts in Dublin. The sacrifice of child-life in the past had been a crying scandal for centuries. Children were born into the world to disappear in a short time, perhaps with capabilities they knew nothing of, lost from carelessness, malnutrition, often worse. Those societies had done something. The number of deaths of babies in Dublin last year was about 1,560, but of the children connected with the clubs only 33 died. A great deal, however, remained to be done. At the present time there was a great deal of unrest and confusion all over the world, and a great deal of anarchy, too. It was, he hoped, only a passing phase coming from the suffering which people had gone through during the war. But they should not delude themselves with the idea that all they saw going on round them was due merely to the war. The confusion and unrest and the tendency to anarchy existed before ever the war took place, and would always remain while conditions continued as they were at present in so many great cities. He was not there to suggest what the State should do towards dealing with that appalling question. They all ought to do something, and that little Club, like the clubs all over the country, was doing its best. It was not only a matter of moral duty, but it was the highest wisdom that they should do that, and it was also, to put it on a very low plane, a kind of insurance. For those reasons, people ought to support those clubs. (Applause.)

Rev. E. Savelle Hicks seconded the resolution, which was carried unanimously.

In proposing that the Club was worthy of support, Sir Andrew Horne said he did not think finer children were produced in any country in the world than those born in Dublin, but they found that nine years ago out of every 1,000 children born in Dublin from 145 to 150 died during the first year of life. This was due to the economic cause, the housing question, and the lives those poor people had to live. The mortality amongst the Club children was very small. (Applause.)

Dr. Ella Webb, who seconded, said it would be a most important thing if all the clubs had girls' classes, and she described the way young girls plunged into matrimony without any knowledge of how to take care of their children as truly appalling.

On the motion of Mrs. Craig Davidson, seconded by Captain Dunne, a vote of thanks was passed to the Chairman, Dr. and Mrs. Solomons, the hon. secretary, hon. treasurer, and the two doctors connected with the Club were also thanked.

ROYAL SOCIETY OF ANTIQUARIES.

The quarterly meeting of the Royal Society of Antiquaries was opened in the Town Hall, Galway, last night. The members were welcomed to Galway by Mr. A. Anderson, President of the Galway University College. Mr. Anderson said that too many Irishmen were fond of dwelling on the past of Ireland, principally on its past grievances, but their Society, he was happy to say, had nothing to do with the grievances of Ireland, but its object was to find out all about the past glories of Ireland.

DUBLIN GUARDIANS.

THE NEW SALARY SCALE.

PROPOSED INCREASES DEFEATED.

ANIMATED DISCUSSION.

Mr. John Scully, J.P., Chairman, presided at a special meeting of the Dublin Board of Guardians, held at the boardroom, James's street, at noon yesterday, to consider the report of the special Committee appointed to revise the scale of salaries since the 2nd April, 1919.

The report, which is dated 26th May, stated that the special Committee had endeavoured to formulate a scale at once satisfactory to the ratepayers and to the officials. They had had to contend with many difficulties; however, the Committee thought they had arrived at an equitable scale. They had decided that the period to reach maximum should be 15 years in each case. The report proceeded—"That an annual increment for each year served (including continuous temporary service previous to election) should be allowed to each present occupant, in order that their salaries in the present scale should be in strict accordance with their service; all increments payable as in previous scale on 1st January. Increments to be allowed to those elected before the 30th June of the previous year; those elected subsequent to the 30th June to receive no increment until the following year. In the case of officers promoted, they have allowed increments in their position from the date of promotion only, except in the case of the Master, who had been Assistant Master, and owing to the failing health of his predecessor had, for a considerable time, been acting Master. In the circumstances in his case the Committee consider he should be allowed credit for his previous service, and let reach the maximum at once. The increase over the previous scale will undoubtedly appear high, but the scale now produced will include the war bonuses, which cease as war bonuses when this scale comes into operation. Further, the committee have had to grant considerable increases where extra duties and responsibilities were undoubtedly imposed, especially as in most of these cases the Board of Guardians had passed increases, and they had been sent back by the Local Government Board for consideration by the Committee."

The Chairman moved the adoption of the Committee's report. He took full responsibility, he said, for doing so, and he hoped the Guardians would see their way to adopt it without any amendments. With one or two, or possibly three, exceptions, the scale they had before them, and which was not rushed in any way, was a scale in which there was practically no increase whatever. The proposed salaries were about equal to the scale adopted 14 years ago, plus the war bonuses, with the exception of a few officers, whose duties had been increased owing to the amalgamation of the North and South Unions. It was said, and widely circulated, that the Guardians were responsible for bringing forward those increases. The Chairman went on to read a letter from the Local Government Board suggesting a revision of the scale of salaries, and said that the Guardians' idea was to group the war bonus with the old salaries. As regards some of the officials who came in for severe criticism, Mr. Condon's salary as Clerk was under the 1905 scale, with a maximum of £700 a year. If his salary was adequate at present, it must have been entirely too big at the time it was granted. He did not think anyone would argue that the duties of the Clerk's office were as light as before the amalgamation. The increase in the dispensaries, relieving officers' districts, and all that made up that vast union, had increased the Clerk's duties to an enormous extent.

Mr. Joseph Doyle seconded the Chairman's proposition.

AN AMENDMENT.

Mr. Stafford moved that the question of the revision of salaries be postponed for twelve months. He did so, he said, on the grounds that the Guardians were not the representatives of the ratepayers at present.

Mr. James Byrne said that that was a nice remark for a Guardian to make.

The Chairman said they were elected by the people, and the remark was uncalled for.

Mr. Stafford said that he again maintained that they did not represent the ratepayers of the city. They had been elected for a certain term, which had long since expired, and the people should have got an opportunity of saying whether they wished to send them back to represent them again or not. "We are here," said Mr. Stafford, "purely and simply as representatives of the Local Government Board, who represent the British Government in Ireland." He might say they were there as puppets of the Local Government Board, to carry out their behests, and squander the money of the ratepayers. He believed that schemes were being promulgated for the break-up of institutions like those, and for the treatment of the poor in a manner that would be of advantage to them and a relief to the ratepayers.

Miss Murphy seconded the amendment.

Mr. W. Richardson said that, if they were there as representatives of the Local Government Board, Mr. Stafford stultified himself in coming to the ordinary meetings.

Replying to a complaint by Mr. Landy that the District Council was not fully represented on the committee which considered the scale of salaries, the Chairman said that the Committee was selected from the members present at the meeting which appointed it.

Mr. Bagnall inquired if the Local Government Board's suggestion to revise the salaries did not arise out of applications for increases from a number of officials, and it was explained that that was so.

Mr. Hugh Kelly said that he would give credit to Mr. Stafford if he would attack the higher paid officials, but they all knew that there were a number of men underpaid.

THE DIVISION.

A poll was taken, when the following voted for the amendment:—John Bagnall, Mrs. Bourke, John Byrne, Miss Margaret Connell, Mrs. Duffy, John Landy, J.P.; H. H. Hely, Michael Maher, T.C.; William Memery, Miss Mary Murphy, John O'Doherty, T.C.; Miss Isabel J. Orpen, Robert C. Perkins, Professor Shields, Matthew Stafford, Patrick Walker, and Miss M. Weldrick—17.

Against:—James Byrne, P. Baggot, J.P.; S. Berkeley, R. Coles, Joseph Colgan, M. J. Cooke, J.P.; T. Corcoran, W. C. Crimmins, C. Donaghy, T.C.; Joseph Doyle (Clontarf), M. J. Doyle, James Gately, T.C.; John Groome, T.C.; Thomas Hogan, John Kavanagh, Hugh Kelly, James Keogh, Michael Lawler, J. J. Leech, Denis Madden, Joseph Maguire, P. McKenna, J.P.; Miss Mary O'Connor, John Scully, J.P.; James Shanley, and William Richardson—26.

The Chairman declared the amendment lost.

Professor Shields moved and Mr. John Byrne seconded the following amendment:—

That the revision of salaries of the officials be sent back to the Salary Revision Committee, the membership of which should be enlarged so as to contain due representation from each principal rate-paying area for further consideration for the following reasons:—(1) The amounts in almost every case are in excess of the present salary and war bonus; (2) the basis of fixing the salaries is unsound, giving present officials credit for war and post-war time initial salaries and increments, and ante-dating such in many cases 15 years; (3) no definite reasons are given in each case, apart from the recent increase in the cost of living, for such salaries and increases; (4) the Guardians are prevented from adequately considering the recommendations, inasmuch as the present salary and war bonus are not set forth in each case on the tabulated statement; (5) the initial salary of many of the positions of officials, having regard to future vacancies, requires further consideration.

The Chairman, having read the amendment, said that he did not think it was an amendment at all, but for the purpose of giving the Guardians free speech on the matter in every respect, and to show that he had no prejudice against any particular Guardian, he would allow the amendment to go to the meeting. He might say that there were statements in the amendment which were not true.

Professor Shields—Thank you for small mercies.

The Chairman—It is not an amendment, and I could rule it out of order if I liked.

Professor Shields said that, if he were allowed to speak without interruption, he would explain each item in the amendment seriatim. In the first place, the committee was appointed as a result of a letter from the Local Government Board dated 28th March, which, he presumed, arrived at the boardroom on Saturday, 29th March, and was read at the Board meeting on the 2nd April, and then the Committee was at once appointed. The letter from the Local Government Board was not placed on the agenda paper, as all important letters from the Local Government Board were placed—for example, a letter with reference to war bonuses given to the tradesmen in the house was on the agenda last Wednesday. But this letter was considered of minor importance, and the Committee was at once appointed from among those present, and he said with reference to that Committee, apart from the persons on it, that it was necessary to have due representation from each principal ratepaying area. It had been remarked that the South Dublin Rural Council was not represented, and a similar complaint was made on behalf of the North Dublin Rural Council. The total annual payment in salaries, if the recommendations of the Committee were carried, would amount to such a large sum as £42,000, and consequently he urged that the principal ratepaying areas should be adequately represented. The amounts recommended in almost every case were in excess of the present salary and war bonus. He did not intend to criticise the officials individually or their work generally.

Mr. Richardson—On a point of order, is Professor Shields not entering into a discussion of the report proper? Is that allowable? If it is it means that a dozen people with sufficient lung capacity can hold you up for the next twelve months. It is simply an attempt at obstruction.

The Chairman—As I have ruled Professor Shields' motion in order, although as I stated at the outset I thought it was not so, I would ask him to confine his remarks to the amendment, and not to discuss the larger subject.

Mr. Maguire said that it seemed to him that, a motion having been made, and an amendment moved, the motion and the amendment were equally before the chair for Mr. Shields to discuss.

The Chairman said that he had already ruled on the matter.

Mr. Richardson said that, according to Mr. Shields, they could go item by item through the twenty-one pages of the Committee's report.

Mr. Shields said that he did not intend to do that.

AMERICA AND THE IRISH QUESTION.

SIR EDWARD CARSON'S VIEWS.

In an article in the Sunday Chronicle, Sir Edward Carson deals with the propaganda work carried on in America in connection with the Irish question, and points out that it is not only in America, but in Switzerland and elsewhere that this campaign is being pursued.

That a vast sum of money is being spent for this purpose is beyond all doubt, he writes. Only yesterday I received from New York a copy of a full-page advertisement in the New York Times contrasting the Declaration of Independence of America and the de Valera "Declaration of Independence" in Ireland, and asking for contributions to aid and assist in establishing the Irish Republic.

One asks himself, naturally, where does all this money come from?

I don't myself for a moment believe that it is a purely Irish movement. It suits all those who are the enemies of this country to make this question a peg to hang their campaign of hostility upon, with a view to weakening the position we have obtained owing to the part we played in the great war.

I have no doubt part of the resources came from Germany and other Continental nations, as well as the contributions which are given in the United States.

It is evident that the Irish question is being dragged into the home politics of the United States, and the resolution passed by the Senate a short time ago demonstrates, I think, the insincerity of the whole campaign.

Mr. Lodge is anxious to whip President Wilson with any material at hand, and he, therefore, for the moment, poses as the friend of an Irish Republic, although he knows well that the Irish in America have always, or nearly always, been on the side of the Democrats.

One might very well treat this internal political movement in America with silent amusement were it not for the serious condition of affairs in Ireland.

PRESENT EFFORTS TO RESTORE ORDER IN IRELAND.

At the present moment, for the first time since 1906, an attempt is being made by Lord French and Mr. Macpherson to restore something like government in that country, and at the same time to accompany it with a policy of reconstruction and a redress of grievances, which is just as necessary in that country after the war as in any other part of the United Kingdom. It is, therefore, most unfortunate that for their own political reasons prominent and responsible men in the United States should interfere in our domestic matters at a time when the Irish Executive is doing everything in its power to rebuild much that has been demolished during the past few years. The recent mission of Americans in Ireland was all part of the same campaign. I had knowledge before they came that there was an organisation upon a considerable scale in America to try by their emissaries to stir up ill-will in Ireland, and at the same time to make that ill-will felt upon the Continent. Does America know what the government of Ireland really is, and does she know the full meaning of the alternative secession and deposition of our King?

IRISH REPRESENTATION.

Ireland holds no subordinate place in the United Kingdom. As a matter of fact, she is represented by double the number of members that any other part of the United Kingdom elects.

In other words, every voter in Ireland has two votes for every one that an Englishman or a Scotsman possesses.

I see it suggested by influential authorities that Ireland may become a Dominion. That I believe to be impossible. Those of us who have fought for the Union have always said that there was no half-way house. It must be either full equality with Englishmen and Scotsmen or absolute separation, and events are proving that we were right.

Personally, I resent the interference of American politicians in the controversies upon this question. It is no business of theirs, and their meddlesome action, even if it was well-intended and sincere, can only add to the turmoil and ferment in our own country.

Americans would resent our interference in any of her affairs. I would myself call it "international effrontery," and I should be sorry to lend myself to any action of the kind. And I am sure that, upon consideration, all those who are not dominated by hostility to this country will agree that we can each best progress on the road of friendship by leaving the domestic affairs of the other alone.

We might, at least, have Monroe Doctrine in domestic affairs, where we so willingly concede it to America in international ones.

But the Government of this country ought not to have merely a policy of drift in relation to the campaign in America. They ought to let it be known in the most emphatic terms that they will brook no interference, official or unofficial, with the government of any part of their own dominions.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

INCOME TAX METHODS.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—I have been afforded opportunities in your columns of complaining of the delays of income tax officials, with most satisfactory results. Recently, however, new tactics appear to have been adopted. On the 6th May a farm appeal was sent in, with full details, written on white paper. Move No. 1 is to require figures to be copied on a buff form. When this is done Move No. 2 follows. The buff form is returned for details of the lands included. When it is pointed out that these had actually been furnished on the 6th May, and retained by the income tax officials, Move No. 3 follows—a string of questions, some of which could have been answered by the office boy or by the char-lady who cleans the office. For example, "Why have wages increased appreciably since last account?" It has been pointed out that wages are fixed by law, not by the employer; that possibly four years of war may have raised the cost of living; and, finally, that, if the above explanations fail to satisfy the income tax authorities, an appeal for further reasons and explanations of this "appreciable increase" might be made to the Wages Board.

Again, the income tax officials want to know why the "resulting produce" of seeds bought in March, 1919, is "so extremely small" on the 5th April, 1919. So far endeavours to explain that these seeds, though bought and paid for, could give no "resulting produce" until they grew up have failed to convince, as the income tax officials return again to their quest. Such queries are so childish and so obviously dilatory that they would not be worth printing but for the importance of calling the attention of farmers to the methods adopted by the officials appointed to deal with farm accounts, and to assess the actual sum which every farmer has to pay for income tax.—Yours, etc.,

T. N. EDGEWORTH.

Cherbury, Booterstown, Co. Dublin,
June 23rd, 1919.

DEMOBILISED IRISH OFFICERS.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—In reference to "Ex-Captain's" letter in to-day's issue of the Irish Times, I should like to inform him that the Comrades of the Great War Association do not confine their activities to the cases of demobilised men alone. I have in the past few months taken up grievances, etc., for many officers, and have obtained successful redress in all cases. The "Comrades" is an association for all ranks, and our members rank from lowest to the highest in the Army, Navy, and Air Force. "Ex-Captain" and other officers in a like position would be well advised to become members of our Association and share the benefits attached to membership. The "Comrades," as well as being the largest organisation for discharged and demobilised men, is absolutely non-political, and is run entirely by ex-service men.—Yours, etc.,

T. A. LIDSTONE,
Lieut., late R.A.F. Secretary.

Comrades of the Great War,
4 Merrion row, Dublin,
June 23rd, 1919.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—I would like to support the letter in your issue of to-day which suggests the formation of an Irish Officers' Federation. There is great need for the existence of such a body. Large numbers of officers are now returning to civil life, to find that it is very hard to get suitable work. They have lost most valuable years; many left remunerative jobs; those who did not join up have stepped into their shoes, and, to a considerable extent, remain there. The demobilised officer now finds that public bodies are in many cases unfriendly, that no one cares very much about him, and that even the Government departments require to be stimulated. We must act collectively.—Yours, etc.,

"EX-OFFICER."

Dublin, June 23rd, 1919.

FOOD AND CLOTHES.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—At the end of your article under the above heading in to-day's issue you say, "An investigation of the profits which the Government is making on its sales of wool seems to be desirable." With this every thinking man will agree. He will go further and say that an investigation is wholly desirable in respect to their profits on, and waste of, everything. The question is—How is such an investigation to be brought about? The Government are the most outrageous of all "profiteers"; but, no matter how outrageous, it is idle to expect that tame legislators elected on the coupon system will turn on their patrons unless driven to it by force of organised public opinion. Such opinion is ready to hand and is making itself felt through the Parliamentary Committee of the Middle Classes' Union, which is bringing pressure to bear on the Government to reduce railway fares. Another Committee of the Union is collating evidence which a member of the Union will put before the Royal Commission on Income Tax, with the view of securing relief in that behalf. Only in this way can we look for anything except further exactions; and only by supporting the Union to the fullest degree possible, in membership and subscriptions, can we expect it to be the immensely powerful body which it may become for guarding our interests.—Yours, etc.,

E. J. MALLINS, Hon. Secretary,
Middle Classes' Union (Dublin Branch).

DUBLIN GUARDIANS.

and would only refer to one or two typical instances, as he did not want to give them an opportunity later on of saying that he was grossly inaccurate. The amounts to be paid under the scale were, in every case, in excess of the present salary and war bonus. Take the Master's salary—£320, £19 war bonus, £25 cash allowance—and he was going to get £720. Take the case of the Master's clerks—salary £200, war bonus £34, in three cases—the total they are going to get under the recommendation, £300.

The Chairman said that the scale was not jumping to £300 right away. It was fixed for 15 years from the date of appointment.

Mr. Shields said that Messrs. Burns, O'Connor, and Carroll (Master's clerks) would get £300 at once.

The Chairman—Certainly, but how long is Mr. Burns in the employment—about 40 years.

Professor Shields said that the present scheme was unsound because they gave present officials credit for war time initial salary, and ante-dated the said salary for 15 years. He, therefore, considered that the basis of the report was unsound, and that was the pivotal reason for his amendment. He urged that the Board were not given adequate means of considering the matter. He understood that in the Corporation when increases of salaries were given each Corporator got the fullest information with reference to the present salaries or war bonuses as the case might be. Three weeks ago he asked for that information at that Board, and he understood that it would be given, but he held that it was not contained in the tabulated statement. With respect to his own opinion he would be very pleased to consider each salary on its merits. (Hear, hear.) He understood that every Guardian who was a member of the Committee had not signed the report.

The Chairman said that the report was signed by him on behalf of the Committee.

Mr. Shields—But Mr. Scully is not a member of the Committee.

The Chairman—By virtue of my office as Chairman, I am a member of every committee.

MR. H. HELY'S CRITICISM.

Mr. Howard Hely supported the amendment, and said that they must not confuse the issue before them. Were they concerned with giving officials the market value of their work or were they concerned, from a philanthropic point of view, to make present salaries equivalent to the officials' wants, irrespective of what they did? In the case of the higher officials, the latter was not so necessary as in the case of those low down in the scale, to whom it was more necessary to get enough to live on. Miners, bricklayers, and so forth were now getting much more money for less work. They paid the wage-earner, not for what he did, but for a social welfare consideration. If they took highly-paid officials like the Clerk and the Master, they should eliminate the cost of living, and so forth, because they represented well-paid salaries. He (Mr. Hely) was not only a Guardian, but he represented the views of a large number of citizens in the Dublin Citizens' Association. They did not object to giving money for value received, but public bodies were always expressing surprise that their officials did good work. He submitted, as a reason for not increasing the salaries of the Clerk and Master, that, although they were able officers, they were only doing routine work. If they were to do something to show the Guardians how to reduce the enormous cost of the establishment, which was a kind of octupus on the ratepayers, or how to give better treatment to the poor, he would not object to giving larger salaries or something exceptional in the way of a bonus; but he saw no evidence that the Clerk or the Master had done or were doing anything exceptional, and, therefore, he objected to their getting any increases.

The Chairman—There is going to be a direct vote later on on the Clerk's salary, and you are out of order on the present amendment.

Mr. Maguire said that he had undertaken the responsibility of joining the Committee with a certain degree of reluctance. He could not understand why a shoemaker should be paid vastly in excess of a medical officer, and, on that ground, he supported the amendment.

In reply to Mr. Baggot,

The Chairman said that the total increases would amount to between £4,000 and £5,000 per annum.

Mr. Baggot said that on such an important matter the Board should court the fullest and most searching inquiry, and he did not see why any guardian should have any objection to having the report sent back for such inquiry.

PRESS CRITICISM RESENTED.

Mr. Richardson said that some of Professor Shields' observations were only part of the blackguard Press campaign on this matter.

Professor Shields—I protest against that statement. I treat it with contempt.

Mr. Richardson said that he protested against the methods adopted there that day. Despite all the Press criticisms they were afraid to face the report, and they were trying by a system of obstruction to show that the Committee was not representative. They were still trying to give a chance to the Press to use more poison gas. The Board should have a vote on the report, in which there was not a single item that the Committee had any need to be ashamed of.

A SCENE.

Mr. Bagnell said that the members of the North and South Dublin Rural Councils had not been treated very fairly, and was proceeding to speak when Mr. Richardson rose excitedly, and shouted: "You keep your insulting remarks to yourself, or I will compel you to do so."

Addressing the Chairman, Mr. Richardson said—He suggested that I was brought here by somebody.

A Guardian said that Mr. Richardson had said that the Press and Professor Shields were guilty of blackguardism.

Mr. Richardson—I did not say that.

Mr. Landy—I am sure Mr. Bagnell did not mean to be insulting, but Mr. Richardson left himself open to it by referring to the dishonesty of this Board.

Mr. Richardson—I did not use the word dishonest, but I said that it might be used.

The Chairman appealed for order.

THE AMENDMENT CARRIED.

After further discussion a poll was taken on the amendment.

The voting was:—

For:—J. Byrne, P. Baggot, J. P. J. Bagnall, Mrs. Bourke, J. Byrne, J.P.; Mrs. Connell, T. Corcoran, M. J. Doyle, Mrs. Duffy, H. H. Hely, James Keogh, John Landy, Joseph Maguire, Michael Maher, William Memery, Miss Murphy, J. O'Doherty, T.C.; Miss Orpin, R. C. Perkins, R. F. Shields, M. Stafford, P. Walker, and Miss Weldrick.—23.

Against:—Stephen Berkeley, R. Colles, J. Colgan, M. J. Cooke, W. Crimmins, C. Donoghy, J. Doyle (Clontarf), J. Gately, T.C.; John Groome, Thomas Hogan, J. Kavanagh, T. Kavanagh, J.P.; H. Kelly, M. Lawler, J. J. Leech, Denis Madden, T. Murphy, P. McKenna, J.P.; Miss M. O'Connor, John Scully, James Shanley, and William Richardson.—22.

Miss Oates did not vote.

The Chairman declared the amendment carried, and the Board adjourned.

TUAM CHAIRMAN'S SPEECH.

REFERENCE TO POLICE WITNESS.

At a Crimes Court in Galway yesterday, before Mr. Kilbride, R.M., and Mr. Hill, R.M., Michael Dwyer, T.C., Chairman of the Tuam Guardians, and Vice-Chairman of the Tuam Sinn Fein Club, was sentenced to two months' imprisonment, and ordered to enter into bail at the end of that period, or, in default, a further two months' imprisonment, on a charge of being a member of an unlawful assembly, and with using language calculated to promote sedition and cause a breach of the peace.

Constable Hughes stated that, addressing a meeting at Tuam on June 3rd, on the occasion of the home-coming of prisoners who had been imprisoned for drilling, the accused made use of the following words:—"It is up to every one of you, Sinn Feiners, to be prepared to do the same thing. We are out for self-determination. It is often we go about with our heads bent from the weight of taxation, keeping up a garrison of British blackguards in this country. The tribunals that try these men, and men like Hoey, are English ruffians. Who they are or where they came from, no one knows. We all know who proved the charge against Hoey. The man who proved the charge is still in our midst, and let him remember that it won't be forgotten of him. You would not mind if he was an Englishman, but he is an Irishman, with Irish blood in his veins. A dirty, rotten Peeler."

Accused did not recognise the Court.

The Chairman said that there was no necessity for an actual breach of the peace or an act of violence to make a meeting an unlawful assembly. When once a speech was made like that it changed a quiet meeting into an unlawful assembly. That law had been decided in England, when persons made seditious speeches in Hyde Park and other places, and one of them, Mr. John Burns, became a Cabinet Minister. The accused in the present case might be a Cabinet Minister yet, but he would have to be convicted of the offence with which he was charged.

AUDACIOUS OUTRAGE IN GALWAY

SHOTS FIRED INTO COTTAGE AND CLUB-HOUSE.

The Sabbath morning was ushered in in the customary peaceful districts of Clybaun and Barna Golf Links, a few miles outside Galway, by two outrages that followed one another in rapid succession. At 2.20 a.m. two gunshots were discharged from the north side of the cottage of Mr. Patrick Halloran, farmer, Clybaun, through the kitchen window, which was shattered, the pellets entering the wall at the far side. The family slept in two adjoining rooms, and at dawn Halloran reported the matter to the Salthill police. At 2.45 a.m. two gunshots were fired into the residential portion of the Galway Golf Club-house, where John Lynskey, the caretaker, and his wife slept. The windows were damaged. The same person could have achieved both outrages by crossing the intervening country in the darkness.

The outrages are regarded as purely intimidatory by the police, who are investigating the affair. Lynskey and Halloran and his son were recently employed by the golf club in room of others, who had left its services.

LANCASHIRE COTTON STRIKE SETTLED.

The Lancashire cotton strike was settled at a conference arranged by the Cotton Reconstruction Board in Manchester yesterday. Representatives of the employers and men recommend the acceptance of a 48-hours' working week, and an advance of 30 per cent. in wages.

LAW REPORTS.

VISITING JUSTICE AGAINST CITY ALDERMAN.

Before Mr. Justice Dodd and a city special jury, the trial began yesterday of the action brought by Sir John Irwin against Thomas M. O'Beirne, an Alderman of the City of Dublin, to recover damages for slander, alleged to have been uttered by the defendant at a meeting of the Corporation in January last, concerning the conduct of the plaintiff, as a member of the Visiting Justices' Committee, relating to the treatment of prisoners in Mountjoy Prison. The words complained of were spoken while the subject of the election of Visiting Justices was being discussed at a meeting of the City Council, and were as follows:—"The only thing I wish to say is I regret that, owing to a sufficiently strong canvass that was made when the Visiting Justices were elected, it prevented myself and one or two others from changing the panel. Sir James Gallagher made a statement as to criminals. These men do not wish anyone not a political prisoner to be treated as political prisoners. That statement was good enough for me at all events. According to my information with regard to the Chairman of the Visiting Justices, and if I am here next time I will be stronger in my opposition, I am informed that Sir John Irwin had not only taken a certain attitude with regard to the prisoners, but where the Governor inflicted certain punishment Sir John Irwin had the privilege of giving them an extra dose." The plaintiff alleged that those words implied that he was biassed as Visiting Justice, and was unfit to hold his official position. The defendant denied that he had used the words, and pleaded that they did not bear the meaning attached to them by the plaintiff.

Mr. Serjeant Sullivan, Mr. T. W. Brown, K.C., M.P., and Mr. Lardner (instructed by Messrs. J. H. Walsh and Co.) appeared for the plaintiff.

Mr. Healy, K.C.; Mr. Lynch, K.C., and Mr. Reardon (instructed by Messrs. R. Greene and Sons) appeared for defendant.

The Lord Mayor and several members of the Corporation were present.

Mr. Serjeant Sullivan, in opening, said that it was opportune that this action should have come for trial, not before any party of strangers or foreigners or politicians or partisans, but before twelve citizens of Dublin. The substance of the slander was that the plaintiff had utilised his official position as a magistrate and a Visiting Justice to add to what they were now accustomed to reading about in the papers as the "atrocities of Mountjoy." The action came on for trial at a time when dishonest persons and unprincipled defamers are circulating lies against all sorts of people for the purpose of provoking excitement, distrust, and disaffection. A reflection on the state of affairs in an Irish prison, although ignorant people might talk about it as being a reflection on the British Government, must always be a reflection upon Irishmen and Irish local bodies, because it was impossible that in any prison there should exist any system of inhumanity or impropriety without the grossest breach of duty by officers who are selected by Irish public bodies for the very purpose of preventing any such thing. If the lurid and ludicrous picture which they had recently seen in the Press from foreigners represented the state of affairs in a civilised community, it would mean that a person sent to jail in the twentieth century would be in much the same position as a person sent there in the fifteenth century. Three years ago there commenced an organised attack on the prison system. As the lower strata of politics came into play there were attacks on individuals connected with the prison, and these attacks had culminated in the slander complained of in the present action. Counsel read a letter which the Lord Mayor had written to the plaintiff in reference to some document which had been circulated amongst members of the Corporation relative to Sir John Irwin's treatment of prisoners in Mountjoy. The Lord Mayor stated:—"Its contents have pained and puzzled me not a little, and clearly there must be some misunderstanding, as the attitude attributed to you in the document is far removed from the attitude you have taken up to my own knowledge during the past nine months, commencing with the death of Thomas Ashe; and your action during that awful period, I remember, drew from Mr. Healy, at the inquest, on behalf of Ashe's relatives, their gratitude for the action that you took in the matter. Later on, I was present at Mountjoy, and heard men who had been on hunger strike actually pass you a vote of thanks for your many acts of kindness to them, and certainly you have on all occasions been very kind and helpful to me, and your many actions went a long way towards making the lot of the men in prison in Mountjoy as comfortable as it was possible for you to make it. In fact, often and often it has occurred to me how could you devote so much of your time in the public service. . . . Day after day I have seen you for hours outside Mountjoy Prison giving permits to visitors to see their friends inside, and I must say it often struck me that you received very little help from any of the other Visiting Justices during that very trying period, and I think now it is poor recompense for what you have done that you should be pilloried in the fashion which is now going on behind your back; but I have had myself to put up with some of this disagreeableness also." A copy of that letter had been sent by the plaintiff to the defendant.

Sir John Irwin was examined by Mr. Brown. He said he had been a magistrate and a member of the Visiting Justices Committee for about twenty years. He had been Chairman of the Committee for about nineteen years. As a Visiting Justice, he had been called in from time to time to hold inquiries in Mountjoy Prison. On these occasions, he always endeavoured to arrive at a fair decision to the best of his ability. He was present at a meeting of the Dublin Corporation on the 1st July, at which he was re-elected a member of the Visiting Justices Committee. He continued to act as a Justice from that date. On 13th January, 1919, a riot took place in Mountjoy Jail. He reported the matter to his colleagues. On the 27th July there was a meeting of the Corporation. He did not attend, but instructed a shorthand writer to be present, and to take a report of the speeches. At this meeting the libel he complained of was uttered. At a meeting of the Corporation in July, 1918, he met the defendant, and asked him if he would vote for him. He said, "I will not, and will do everything I can against you."

In cross-examination by Mr. Lynch, the plaintiff said that he always wrote up the minutes of the meeting of the Justices. He had canvassed the members of the Corporation to vote for him, by sending each a short note enclosing the Lord Mayor's letter. The Town Clerk had been Secretary to the Justices Committee, and he sent reports to the Corporation, but that system had been changed within the last month by the Government.

Did you order two prisoners, Fleming and Fanning, three days' further restraint beyond what had been given by the Governor? I do not recollect, but it is quite possible. That is not punishment; it is authorising continuance of the restraint—the restraint being handcuffs. Fleming complained of the handcuffs being tight, and he got a new pair.

In regard to a meeting of the Justices on January 16th Mr. Lynch said that he had subpoenaed the Governor of the prison to produce the books, and the Governor, who was in Court, in reply to the judge, said that he was instructed not to produce the books.

Mr. Lynch said that this would shut them out from the fullest investigation, and feared that what he was saying would be censored, while that which Serjeant Sullivan said would not be censored.

Mr. Justice Dodd—This is an open Court, and I shall take care that anything that is said in this Court shall not be censored.

In reply to further questions, the plaintiff said that he was present when the water hose was turned on some of the prisoners—two, or three—for about a quarter of an hour. He had not ordered the hosing, and he could not say whether or not any of the prisoners fell down through exhaustion. These men were put into hospital. He had no malice towards Alderman O'Beirne. The Chairmanship of the Visiting Justices Committee was an unpaid position. He had spent his time and money in discharging the duties of the office.

The case is at hearing.

ADMINISTRATION OF THE ARNOTT ESTATE.

In the Chancery Division yesterday, the case of Arnott v. Arnott came before Mr. Justice Powell. It was an application by Sir John A. Arnott, as executor and one of the trustees of the will and codicils thereto of the late Sir John Arnott, for the determination of certain questions which had arisen between him and his co-trustee, Lady FitzGerald Arnott. The plaintiff asked for an order that the defendant should sign and return to him a certain number of bank cheques for the payment of interest on certain charitable and religious legacies bequeathed by the will of the late Sir John Arnott.

Mr. S. L. Brown, K.C. (instructed by Messrs. Casey, Clay, and Collins), read the salient clauses of the will, which was dated 11th August, 1897. Under that will the testator appointed the plaintiff (Sir John A. Arnott) and his (testator's) wife (the defendant) as his executors and trustees. Clause 18 of the will declared that, so long as the testator's son (plaintiff) shall be a trustee, all the powers of both trustees shall be vested in him solely, as if he were sole trustee, and have power to buy and sell, and to administer the estate at his sole discretion. Notwithstanding that he was given the sole power to administer the estate, he consulted Lady FitzGerald Arnott in almost everything that he did. She brought the matter before the Master of the Rolls in 1899, and the question which the late Sir Andrew Porter was asked to decide was one which arose as to the meaning of Clause 18.

The first question was—Whether Clause 18 of the will was invalid and void as being inconsistent with, contradictory, and repugnant to the other provisions of the will? The answer was—It is not invalid nor void.

Question 2—Whether in case the said Clause 18 is valid, its effect is to constitute the defendant, Sir John A. Arnott, the sole judge of all matters whatsoever relating to the administration of the estate and the carrying out of the trusts of the will, so as to bind the plaintiff to carry out without question any decision that he may arrive at with respect to all the trusts and powers conferred on the trustees by the will? The answer was—The effect is to vest in Sir John A. Arnott the powers and authorities in the preceding parts of the will contained and conferred upon the testator's trustees as if he was sole trustee, so as to bind the plaintiff to carry out the decisions of the defendant in respect thereof, arrived at in good faith. These answers left the matter in no doubt; they left Sir John Arnott sole trustee in any matter that he wished to take the direction of, and his co-trustee (the defendant) was bound to do everything that was necessary to carry out whatever he determined in the administration of the estate. One would have thought that the determination of a question of that sort by the Court would have put an end to any question that could possibly arise afterwards between Sir John and Lady Fitz-Gerald Arnott. But notwithstanding the very clear pronouncement of the Master of the Rolls, which was not only binding upon her, but brought by herself, she had on three occasions since 1899 refused to abide by that decision. She had declined to sign cheques for the payment of interest on legacies, insurance premiums, etc. The result was that a summons had to be brought before the Master of the Rolls in 1904, when the question was whether she was obliged to sign those cheques or practically to block administration of the estate, and so risk the turning of this great estate into Court for administration. After argument, in which all the matters were gone into, and in which the effect of Clause 18 was thoroughly impressed upon all the parties by Sir Andrew Porter, he expressed a strong opinion about Lady FitzGerald-Arnott's taking up the position that she did. The result was that at the close of the proceedings the cheques were signed, and no rule was made on the motion, and the Master of the Rolls gave both parties their costs out of the estate. A similar question arose again in 1917, when Lady FitzGerald-Arnott refused to sign cheques in connection with an investment of £15,000 in War Loan. Just as the case was going on Lady FitzGerald-Arnott agreed to sign the cheque, and the only question then left was one of costs. Mr. Justice Barton took a lenient view, and although he did not make Lady FitzGerald-Arnott pay the costs he refused to give her costs, but gave Sir John Arnott his costs. The same thing had, unfortunately, occurred now on a much more extensive scale than had hitherto occurred, and the plaintiff had been reluctantly obliged to come to the Court and ask for an order to the defendant to sign a number of cheques. He (counsel) was astonished at the attitude of Lady FitzGerald-Arnott, because she must have been advised that she really had no power to interfere or to quarrel with or approve or disapprove of any of the acts of Sir John, her co-trustee, in the administration of the trusts of the will. When Sir Andrew Porter decided the case in 1904 he expressed a very strong opinion that Sir John had absolute control of the administration of the estate, and he threw it out that, as a matter of courtesy and right feeling, Lady FitzGerald-Arnott should be consulted in these matters. But that would have been done even if the judge had not expressed that view, and since then, and always, Sir John had carried out the suggestion of the Master of the Rolls, and although he was not bound to do it he had taken his co-trustee into his confidence, and had her approval on the matters that he was doing. There could be no suggestion that any of the matters that Sir John Arnott had done in connection with the estate was not proper and right. When the late Sir John Arnott died the residue of his estate amounted to £37,000 odd; and when the matter came before the Master of the Rolls the residue had increased to £370,000. Since then the increase had been proportional, and now it amounted to over £550,000, so that there could be no doubt that the management of the estate had been carried on with the most wonderful business success. Lady FitzGerald-Arnott had not, therefore, any reason to complain of the administration of the estate by Sir John, but quite the contrary. Counsel having opened the plaintiff's affidavit,

Mr. Justice Powell said he proposed to rise, it being then 4.30 o'clock; and as the arguments could not conclude that day,

Mr. Garrett Walker, K.C. (instructed by Messrs. S. and R. C. Walker and Son), said his client had agreed to sign the cheques and to give them up at once.

Mr. Brown—That is agreed since this morning.

The further hearing was adjourned till this morning.

The Grain Order.—In the Chancery Division the Master of the Rolls delivered judgment in the action brought by the Crown against William McEvoy, Ltd., for a declaration that the defendants sold grain at a price in excess of that allowed by the Order of the Food Controller, and for the recovery of penalties under the regulations made under the Defence of the Realm Act. By the regulation in question it was provided that the person offending, in addition to any penalty to which he may be liable, shall forfeit to His Majesty a sum equal to double the amount of the excess price charged, and that the same shall be recoverable as a debt due to the Crown. The motion was instituted by the defendant company to stay the action in the Chancery Division, and to have it transferred to the King's Bench Division. The motion was based upon the right of the defendants to have the issues involved tried by a jury. Without committing himself at present to a final opinion, he (the Master of the Rolls) was inclined to hold that this was the defendants' right. But right of trial by jury did not oust the jurisdiction of this Court, nor did trial by this Court necessarily exclude trial by jury. As it was for the convenience of taking an account to retain the case in this Court, and as no right of the defendants would be infringed by keeping the action in this Court for the present, he refused the motion to transfer the action.

Late Duke of Abercorn's Estate.—In the hearing of the appeal as to the estate duty in this matter, before Mr. J. Lopdell, C.E., last week at the Four Courts, the valuation of the estate at £30,460 was prepared by Mr. H. Babington, C.E., Londonderry, on behalf of the Duke of Abercorn, and he gave evidence in regard to it in detail.

NEW ISSUE.

STAR ENGINEERING CO.

The Star Engineering Co., Ltd., offer for sale 100,000 Ordinary Shares of £1 each at 21s. per share, payable 2s. 6d. per share on application and 18s. 6d. per share on acceptance. The 100,000 shares now offered rank for dividend equally with the existing Ordinary Shares as from January 1, 1919, the commencement of the present financial year. Barclays Bank, Ltd., City office, 170 Fenchurch street, London, E.C. 3; head office, 54 Lombard street, London, E.C. 3, and branches, will receive applications on behalf of and as bankers for George Clare and Co., Ltd., 9 Old Broad street, London, E.C. 2, who have acquired the shares. In a letter (given in the prospectus) Mr. Edward Lisle, the managing director of the company, says that to meet the growing demands of the business a site of 19 acres has been recently purchased, upon which a new coach-building works is at present being erected. The additional capital will enable the company to extend the works on this new site as occasion required. As will be seen from the auditors' certificate the average profits for the past ten years exceed £23,000 per annum. For the years ended 1917 and 1918 the dividends declared were at the rate of 10 per cent. per annum. Dividends have been smaller than the profits would have justified, with the result that the assets at December 31, 1918, represented over 26s. per share. The orders on the books at present exceed £400,000 in value, and deliveries are increasing week by week. The shares are a fairly good industrial ordinary. The list will close on or before June 30.

THE METHODIST CHURCH.

ANNUAL CONFERENCE.

The Methodist Conference was resumed yesterday in the Carlisle Memorial Hall, Belfast, the President, Rev. Samuel Johnson, in the chair.

Rev. R. Lee Cole, B.D., presented the report on general education. There were 60 National Schools, with 7,825 pupils, 178 teachers, and 18 pupil teachers and monitors. The total income of the teachers was £23,338 10s. 5d., an increase of £5,078 8s. 1d., due chiefly to war bonuses. The report was accepted.

A resolution was adopted recommending an improvement in the salaries of the teachers and the levying of a local education rate in view of the report of the Viceregal Commission on Primary and Secondary Education.

Arising out of the report of the War Emergency Committee—the receipts of which were £1,339 16s. 6d., and expenditure £1,143 12s. 3d.—a resolution was passed expressing thanks for victory in the war.

The report on Army and Navy work stated that in the Soldiers' Rendezvous, Dublin, over 750,000 meals had been served, and £30,000 taken in payment.

In the report on local preachers' work it was stated that there were 622 local preachers and 56 probationers.

All coal shipping at Swansea was idle yesterday through the dock weighers striking on the wages question. Boatmen and harbour pilots also ceased work over the week-end.

R.I.C. CADETSHIPS.
Candidates should note that at the last examination the First Place was gained by a pupil of ROSSE COLLEGE, St. Stephen's Green, Dublin.—(Advt.)

CHICAGO, MONDAY.

WHEAT on spot dull. No. 2 red winter, spot, nominal; No. 2 hard winter, spot, nominal.

CORN opened firm, 1¼c. to 1½c. up, and further strengthened on the rise in hogs, peace reported, poor quality of the Argentine crop, lighter interior movement, and commission house buying; then July declined under a disappointing cash demand, liquidation, and sales for storage; but all positions rose owing to covering operations, bull support, and light offerings. After a partial reaction on realising, the market closed steady, 1c. to 3⅞c. up. July, 185¼; September, 178⅛; December, 156⅛.

OATS irregular, ⅛c. down to ⅛c. up. July, 71¼; September, 70⅞; December, 71⅞.

PROVISIONS opened firm, and advanced on peace talk, expected higher hog prices, foreign buying, shorts covering, and professional support; then eased under realising, a disappointing investment demand liquidation, and Armour interests selling. Some covering took place late, and the market closed irregular, with lard 2½ to 5, pork 25 to 10, and ribs 25 to 22½ points down. Lard—July, 35.20; September, 35.00. Pork—July, 51.50; September, 49.65. Ribs—July, 27.97½; September, 28.10.

BACON steady and unchanged to 25 points down. The receipts of hogs at 15 principal Western centres, including Chicago, since March 1st, total 9,584,000, against 10,259,000 for the corresponding season last year.

ALL-ENGLAND CHAMPIONSHIPS.

Wimbledon is destined to beat all records this year, when, after the lapse of five years, the All-England Championships have been revived. Never before has so large an attendance been known on the opening day, and then again never have the championships drawn so large and so widely representative an entry. Wimbledon this year will prove, if proof were necessary, that lawn tennis of all games is the most universal, for the leading players from all parts of the world are engaged in the All-England Championships. Yesterday's play, as in pre-war days, was confined to matches in the first round of the open singles, in which sixty-four matches have to be played, representing the unprecedented entry of 128 players. Andre Gobert, the great Frenchman, defeated N. Mishu, the Rumanian—6-1, 6-4, 6-4; A. N. Gore, one of the stalwart band of veterans, was eliminated by F. H. Jarvis, of Herts—2-6, 4-6, 7-5, 6-4, 6-2; N. Washburn, one of the prominent American players, defeated D. H. Mellett, of South Africa—6-1, 6-3, 3-6, 6-1; Max Woosnam (Cambridge University), familiar to cricketers and Association football players, began well by defeating N. C. Youll—6-2, 6-1, 6-1. M. J. G. Ritchie, one of the hopes of England, also emerged from the first round by vanquishing "J. Robinson"—6-2, 6-1, 6-0. F. L. Riseley beat C. G. M. Ingham—6-1, 6-2, 6-2; P. O'Hara Wood (Australia) defeated Sir George Thomas, Bart.—6-1, 6-8, 6-4, 5-7, 6-3. The victor played the last set in his stockinged feet because he was slipping.

ATHLETICS AND CYCLING.

BOYS' BRIGADE SPORTS AT BELFAST.

On Saturday a team of eight boys representing the Dublin Battalion achieved notable successes at the Belfast Battalion sports, held at Windsor Park, Belfast. Details:—

100 Yards (scratch) (3 boys from each Battalion)—1, Lance-Corpl. R. E. Murray, 21st Dublin; 2, Pte. N. F. Newcombe, 21st Dublin; 3rd, Pte. J. Cowdry, 1st Belfast. Time, 11 2-5 secs.

Half-Mile (scratch) (3 boys from each Battalion)—1, Lance-Corpl. G. W. Ryder, 4th Dublin; 2, Pte. A. Thompson, 21st Dublin; 3, Corpl. F. J. Dowling, 1st Dublin. Time, 2 mins. 23 secs.

Relay Race—Dublin, w.o.; Belfast, scratched.

In addition to the inter-Battalion competition, the members of the Dublin team contested other events. Private Thompson (21st Co.) and Corpl. Greenaway (5th) competed in the 440 yds. handicap, securing first and second places respectively. Lance-Corpl. G. W. Ryder (4th), Corpl. F. J. Dowling (1st), and Corpl. J. M. Smith (5th), the three Dublin entrants for the mile handicap, were successful in winning in the order named the first, second, and third prizes. In the 220 yards handicap, Dublin did not do so well; of the two Dublin competitors, Private Newcombe (21st) fell, and Lance-Corpl. Murray (21st) was beaten by Pte. Cowdy, of 1st Belfast Co.

The Belfast relay team not being forthcoming, a scratch team of three staff-sergeants and one boy was organised, and just beat the Dublin contingent by a couple of yards.

AMATEUR ATHLETIC CHAMPIONSHIPS.

The entries for these championships, which are to be revived at Stamford Bridge grounds on Saturday, July 5th, closed yesterday with a total that easily beats all previous records. The whole of the 16 events have been strongly supported, and a great meeting is promised. In addition to the enormous number of competitors who have sent in their names quality is splendidly represented, practically every athlete who has shown prominently in athletics of late being in the lists. America, Canada, New Zealand, Scotland, and Ireland have strong forces competing. Norway and Sweden are also represented, while the fixture has been loyally supported by the Universities, the public schools, and the principal English clubs. The scrutiny meeting for the purpose of passing the entries will be held this week.

SWIMMING.

PEMBROKE CLUB.—This evening, final, 220 yards handicap, Clarke Memorial Cup, 6.30 o'clock. Water polo practice.

GUINNESS'S BREWERY LADY CLERKS.

PUBLIC AMUSEMENTS.

O'MARA OPERA COMPANY.

The third week of the successful season of the O'Mara Opera Company was pleasingly inaugurated last night, when "Madam Butterfly" was presented to a crowded house, and received with cordial expressions of approval. As on the occasion of its former production, the singing and acting reached a high level. Miss Morden was again a marked success in the part of Madam Butterfly, her sweet voice and simple manner being admirably suited to the rôle. As Suzuki, Miss Mabel Dennis sang with a charm and freedom from restraint which delighted her hearers. Mr. Joseph O'Mara replaced Mr. John Pegg as Lieutenant Pinkerton, and his singing showed an admirable interpretation of the part. He was in good voice, and his acting also was up to the standard demanded. The other members of the cast, all of whom sustained their parts with credit, were:—Miss Cahill, Mr. W. Davies, Mr. Locker, Mr. Bevan, Mr. Bowring, Mr. Price, Mr. Clarke, Miss Hill, Miss Davis, Miss Birkenhead, and Master J. Pegg. This evening—"The Marriage of Figaro."

THEATRE ROYAL.

There are several particularly good turns in the programme of the Theatre Royal this week, and crowded houses last evening followed the varied entertainment with keen interest. Robb Wilton is a quiet-going comedian, with a deliberate and confidential manner, which nothing on earth would seem to ruffle, not even a poisoning case. He tells some good stories without waste of words, very cleverly contrived so as to mystify the meaning. But it is in his character as amateur detective officer that his coolness is emphasised. His play with the lady who comes to give herself up for having poisoned her husband is ludicrous, but it tells. A very nice musical performance on the violin was given by Betty Washington, who, a little girl, is called the bare-footed violinist, and she was warmly encored. Bob Robinson and Nan Macken in "The Old Cobbler" were well received; the Real McKays gave a song and dance performance; and a very smart sketch, and most interesting, was that in which Hayman and Franklin (lady and gentleman) gave a story in three acts illustrating married life. Two excellent vocalists are Miss Enid Cruickshank and Miss May Watson, whose operatic selections, in solo and duo, were good, and drew forth warm applause. The Poppescus presented a brilliant act on the horizontal bars.

THE QUEEN'S THEATRE.

The attraction this week at the Queen's Theatre is "The Cattle Thief," in which the author, Mr. George A. Street, has concentrated much of the spirit of adventure and recklessness, intermixed with broad and boisterous comicality, which characterise life in the ranch lands of America. The action of the play develops with a vigour that grips one's interest from the outset, and holds it unflaggingly to the finish. Stirring episode and complex situation succeed each other in quick succession, and the exploits of Mardo, the desperado, as portrayed by Mr. Street, give to the melodrama a power which holds the attention of the audience firmly fixed throughout. A strong touch of comedy is given to the play by the animated love-making between an assertive type of Yankee sheriff and a ranchman's daughter, whose efforts to dissemble her matrimonial designs are more ludicrous than impressive. The principal characters were capably taken by Mr. Fred Bentley (the sheriff), Mr. A. H. Clark (the ranchman), Mr. Victor Lytton (Pop Larson), Miss Eva Hope (Arabella Stickney), and Miss Dora Bentley (Clara Mason).

THE IRISH THEATRE.

A Russian four-act play, "The Cherry Orchard," by Anton Tchekoff, was produced last evening for the first time in the Irish Theatre, Hardwicke street. The work purports to be a picture of peasant life in Russia during the past generation, but in its psychology, its characterisation, and atmosphere, as one saw it last evening in its English version, it was disappointing. The dialogue throughout is stilted, and very often absolutely inconsequential, and the play is devoid of the elements of passion or conflict of purpose to lift it to a level of realism. The principal parts were impersonated by Miss Helen Carter (Mme. Ranevsky), Miss Columba O'Carroll (Anya, her daughter), Mr. John M'Donagh (Leonid Gayaf), Mr. Paul Farrell (Lopakhin), and Mr. Gerald Norman (Peter Trophimof). The minor parts were filled by Miss Katherine MacCormack, Messrs. Oliver Clonabraney, Andrew Dillon, Patrick Hayden, William Paul, Richard Sheridan, and Miss Grace M'Cormack and Miss Eileen M'Grane. A performance will be given each evening this week at 8 o'clock.

THE EMPIRE THEATRE.

The outstanding feature of the programme this week at the Empire Theatre is the entertainment of the King's Jesters, a company of artistes whose mirth-provoking qualities were displayed with a sprightliness and versatility that irresistibly appealed to the audience. Messrs. Dan E. Doyle and J. T. Harrington, the two principal funny men, showed themselves, both in their musical and comical gifts, resourceful and piquant, and they were ably supported by a number of artistes, who enhanced the turn by several pretty vocal trifles. The Sisters O'Hara, a trio of talented singers, who always command an enthusiastic reception, were heard in a number of new selections, whose harmonic beauty was brought out with precision and clearness of phrasing. Shaw and Levaine, in their comedy musical act, gave an amusing display of antics, interspersed with some smart instrumental playing, for which they were warmly applauded. Madge Clifton, assisted by a little child of tender years, was heard in a number of vaudeville songs, after which, in response to an encore, she gave "My Old Home." An acceptable turn, consisting of dancing and vocalism, was contributed by the Dainty Raymonds, and the selections of the orchestra, notably Costa's "Dawn of Victory," were much admired.

TIVOLI THEATRE.

May Erne and Erne Chester are given conspicuous place in the Tivoli programme this week. They succeed in making the audience laugh and manifest their approval of the performance. Miss Maude Edwards gives quite a diverting show of ventriloquism. By aid of her puppet she delivers herself of many witty sallies, and while smoking a cigarette sings, of course through the figure, a song, in the chorus of which the audience joins. Bunny and Dawe are responsible for a musical speciality act, in which the gentleman acts a somewhat wild part while playing a concertina. Brett Brothers, comedy gymnasts; Mamie Morris, baton swinger, comedienne and dancer; Laurette, contortionist and acrobatic dancer; Harry Hewitt, musical humorist, and Cissie Cane, comedienne, complete a commendable entertainment.

TO-DAY'S RECIPE.

HOW TO MAKE LIGHT PASTRY.

If you go about pastry making in the right way, you need use very little dripping or margarine and yet have beautifully short crust. This is the "right way" recipe for

ECONOMICAL PASTRY.

12 oz. flour. 2 oz. fat.
1½ oz. "Paisley Flour." A pinch of salt or sugar.

Sift together the flour "Paisley Flour" and salt if for meat or savoury pies, sugar if for a sweet tart. Warm the fat in a bowl, and beat it with a fork till creamy. Beat in the dry ingredients, then work in a few drops of cold water to form into a nice dough. By creaming the fat in this way it goes twice as far.

GALWAY AND THE ATLANTIC FLIGHT.—A strong desire is expressed in Galway that, in order to commemorate the landing of the first aeroplane to cross the Atlantic, the wings and tail of the Vickers-Vimy might be given a permanent place in the museum of Galway University College, side by side with some of the famous relics of the Spanish Armada, wrecked on the Irish coast in 1588. The desire is also expressed that a small tablet should be erected on the spot where the machine landed, and local people have already expressed their readiness to subscribe.

CHARGE AGAINST DEMOBILISED SOLDIER.—At a special court in Westport yesterday, before Mr. Meldon, R.M., a man named Michael Staunton was brought up in custody, charged with having held up Dr. Martin Moran in his motor at Carrowbeg, Kilmeena, on Sunday, 15th June, by presenting a gun at him and demanding a permit. Accused, who is a demobilised soldier, was remanded to next Petty Sessions.

13th June, 1919.

ear Sirs,—With regard to the 100,000 Ordinary res of £1 each in the Star Engineering Co., ited, which you have acquired, thereby increasthe Subscribed Capital of the Company to 000 Preference Shares and 170,000 Ordinary res, I submit the following details concerning Company.

ANAGEMENT.—Since the formation of the pany in 1896, I have been Managing Director, now have the practical assistance of my son, ph Lisle, the other members of the Board g:—Alderman L. Johnson, J.P. (Chairman), J. Steward and E. Lisle, jun.

ORKS—The Company has extended its mises from time to time to meet the steadily reasing business, so that to-day our three Freed buildings in Wolverhampton cover a floor e of over 130,000 square feet, and to meet growing demands of the business a site of 19 s has been recently purchased at Showell road, which a new Coachbuilding Works is at ent being erected. The additional capital will mit us to extend our works on this new site occasion requires.

LANT—The Company's works are equipped one of the most up-to-date and well-balanced t installations in the Motor Industry.

ODELS AND OUTPUT—During the War we e been engaged on the manufacture of our s, and, in addition, the production of Aircraft ines, etc. The experience gained in the r has enabled us materially to improve our twar Car Engine, and, in my opinion, our 1919 el will more than maintain its old-time reputa, and as in the past will appeal to a large s of users, owing to the moderate price at h it will be sold.

RDERS—Some idea of the popularity of our s and Lorries may be gathered from the fact , without special effort on our part, the orders ur books at the present time exceed £400,000 alue, which will keep our works fully occupied some ime to come.

ROFITS AND ASSETS—As will be seen from Auditors' Certificate, the average profits for past ten years exceed £23,000 per annum. the years ended 1917 and 1918 the Dividends ared were at the rate of 10 per cent. per m. Dividends have been smaller than the ts would have justified, with the result that assets at 31st December, 1918, represented 26/- per share, and, in addition, I am fied that on a revaluation our buildings and t would stand at a much higher figure than ears in our books.

ROSPECTS—In my opinion we should do exngly well in the future, as the price of our brings it well within the reach of men of erate means, the excellence of our Engine is known, and we are not only giving output , but deliveries are increasing week by week. ours faithfully, E. LISLE, Managing Director.

DUBLIN CITY SESSIONS.

BREACH OF WARRANTY.

Yesterday, at the City Sessions, before the Recorder, in Green street Courthouse, in an action for breach of warranty in the sale of butter, in which the plaintiff was William O'Callaghan, grocer, Carysfort avenue, Blackrock, and the defendants Messrs. Nolan and Co., wholesale butter merchants, Cope street, Dublin, Mr. J. M. Flood (instructed by Messrs. Little, Doyle, and Woods), for the plaintiff, said that his client was in no way responsible for the amount of water which it was found on analysis the butter contained. Mr. O'Callaghan had bought the butter under a warranty from Messrs. Nolan that the butter did not contain more than the percentage of moisture permitted by law; but examination showed that it amounted to 20.5 per cent. The butter had been purchased by the defendants from a Limerick creamery. Plaintiff had been fined by Mr. Lipton, at Kingstown Police Court, in £2 for selling butter with an excessive amount of moisture, but the magistrate said that if he had evidence to satisfy him that the plaintiff had sold the butter believing it all right he would dismiss the summons.

Mr. Bradley, for the defendants, said that his clients had bought the butter from a Limerick creamery under the belief that it did not contain more than the amount of water which the law permitted. In some cases it happened that an excess of moisture got into the butter in the refrigerating room, owing to the Admiralty having commandeered large supplies of carbonic acid gas, which creamery people employed to keep the butter from getting overloaded with moisture while in storage.

A decree for £6 4s. was given, Mr. Bradley remarking that his clients would proceed for compensation against the firm that sold them the butter.

ACTION FOR SLANDER.

Hyman Harris Weiner, Longwood avenue, S.C.R., described as a photographic artist, claimed damages for alleged slander against William Hare, a National School Teacher, of 61 North Strand road, in respect of certain words alleged to have been used by defendant towards plaintiff.

Mr. Kingsmill Moore (instructed by Mr. Bradley) appeared for the plaintiff and Mr. Joseph O'Connor (instructed by Messrs. Gerald Byrne and ...) for the defendant.

The case for the plaintiff was that in March last defendant "accosted him" in ... street, and asked plaintiff to hand up to him a photograph of defendant's daughter, which he had taken from defendant's residence to have enlarged, and that, on plaintiff declining to do so, defendant threatened to follow him up and have detectives put on his track. Defendant at the same time alleged that the plaintiff was well known to the detectives, and asked plaintiff to go with him to the detective office.

For the defence the evidence was that the plaintiff came to defendant's house some time after his son was killed while fighting in France, and asked to be given an order for the enlargement of his photograph. Plaintiff then gave his name as Weer, but when asked for his address declined to give it, stating that that was his own business. Defendant made no imputations then or subsequently against plaintiff, but he had suspicions of him, and he had been in trouble with the police. When the enlarged photograph was delivered to defendant it was very unsatisfactory, and the photograph of his daughter was not sent back until shortly before the action for slander was brought.

His lordship, having reviewed the circumstances, said that the suspicions felt by the defendant were perfectly intelligible, and Weiner had acted in a most outrageous manner in detaining the photograph of the young lady after its return was demanded. All the trouble, such as it was, was brought about by Weiner himself. The words complained of amounted to a technical offence when looked at with meticulous care, but it was of a very paltry character, and the case ought not to have been brought. He would give the plaintiff a farthing damages, with ... costs ... but he would get no costs in the ... Court.

PROVINCIAL PARAGRAPHS.

GALWAY AND THE ATLANTIC FLIGHT.—A strong desire is expressed in Galway that, in order to commemorate the landing of the first aeroplane to cross the Atlantic, the wings and tail of the Vickers-Vimy might be given a permanent place in the museum of Galway University College, side by side with some of the famous relics of the Spanish Armada, wrecked on the Irish coast in 1588. The desire is also expressed that a stone tablet should be erected on the spot where the machine landed, and local people have already expressed their readiness to subscribe.

CHARGE AGAINST DEMOBILISED SOLDIER.—At a special court in Westport yesterday, before Mr. Moldon, R.M., a man named Michael Staunton was brought up in custody, charged with having held up Dr. Martin Moran in his motor at Carrowbeg, Kilmeena, on Sunday, 15th June, by presenting a gun at him and demanding a permit. Accused, who is a demobilised soldier, was remanded to next Petty Sessions.

Interest at the rate of 10 per cent. will be charged on overdue instalments. Preferential treatment will be given to applications for purchase from Shareholders of the Company.

Particulars of the position of the Company will be found in the following Letter from Mr. Edward Lisle, the Managing Director of the Company:—

Messrs. George Clare and Co., Ltd.,
9 Old Broad street, London, E.C.2.
Frederick street, Wolverhampton,
13th June, 1919.

Dear Sirs,—With regard to the 100,000 Ordinary Shares of £1 each in the Star Engineering Co., Limited, which you have acquired, thereby increasing the Subscribed Capital of the Company to 70,000 Preference Shares and 170,000 Ordinary Shares, I submit the following details concerning the Company.

MANAGEMENT.—Since the formation of the Company in 1896, I have been Managing Director, and now have the practical assistance of my son, Joseph Lisle, the other members of the Board being—Alderman L. Johnson, J.P. (Chairman), J. F. Steward and E. Lisle, jun.

WORKS.—The Company has extended its premises from time to time to meet the steadily increasing business, so that to-day our three Freehold buildings in Wolverhampton cover a floor space of over 130,000 square feet, and to meet the growing demands of the business a site of 19 acres has been recently purchased at Showell road, upon which a new Coachbuilding Works is at present being erected. The additional capital will permit us to extend our works on this new site as occasion requires.

PLANT.—The Company's works are equipped with one of the most up-to-date and well-balanced plant installations in the Motor Industry.

MODELS AND OUTPUT.—During the War we have been engaged on the manufacture of our cars, and, in addition, the production of Aircraft Engines, etc. The experience gained in the latter has enabled us materially to improve our post-war Car Engine, and, in my opinion, our 1919 model will more than maintain its old-time reputation, and as in the past will appeal to a large class of users, owing to the moderate price at which it will be sold.

ORDERS.—Some idea of the popularity of our Cars and Lorries may be gathered from the fact that, without special effort on our part, the orders on our books at the present time exceed £400,000 in value, which will keep our works fully occupied for some time to come.

PROFITS AND ASSETS.—As will be seen from the Auditors' Certificate, the average profits for the past ten years exceed £23,000 per annum. For the years ended 1917 and 1918 the Dividends declared were at the rate of 10 per cent. per annum. Dividends have been smaller than the profits would have justified, with the result that the assets at 31st December, 1918, represented over 26/- per share, and, in addition, I am satisfied that on a revaluation our buildings and plant would stand at a much higher figure than appears in our books.

PROSPECTS.—In my opinion we should do exceedingly well in the future, as the price of our car brings it well within the reach of men of moderate means, the excellence of our Engine is well known, and we are not only giving output now, but deliveries are increasing week by week.
Yours faithfully, E. LISLE, Managing Director.

FINANCIAL NEWS

DUBLIN STOCK EXCHANGE.

Most of the price movements on 'Change yesterday were favourable with several well sustained improvements established, and some notable adverse alterations also. The Funds were on balance lower on the German Fleet-sinking incident, which might well delay Peace. India Stocks were weak, but Consols actually rose, and War Loan 5 p.c. finished firmly. The Bank market was good generally, but Bank of Ireland Stock proved an exception. Breweries were better and improved, but a few Dublin Distillers Ord. were quoted a couple of shillings lower. City of Dublin Steam Stock established a fresh record. Marconi Ord. eased a trifle, but the Subsidiaries were good in tone and tendency. Great Northern Ord. Stock was the feature in the Railway market, and closed even stronger after hours. Trams were hard. Bolands were a little better. Textiles were easy, and Burke Ord. were also a trifle lower. Tobacco and Oil shares established fresh, but less exciting gains. Hibernian Fire Insurance 4s. paid shares realised 4s. 3d.

The Funds were mostly lower, but Consols rose ⅛ to 53⅝, and War Loan 5 p.c. after an initial ⅛ decline recovered, and closed unaltered at 94¼. Irish Land 3 p.c. fell 1¼ to 59⅛, and India 3½ p.c. ⅞ to 65⅞. Dublin Corporation Stock was easy, and fetched 70.

In the Banking group, Hibernians rose ¼ to 6¼, Munsters ⅛ to 9¼, and Nationals ⅜ to 20¼, while Bank Stock fell 1½ to 220.

There was more doing in Breweries, etc., Castlebellingham and Drogheda Ord. rose ¼ to 6¼, and Guinness Ord. ¼ to 38¼ buyers, while the Pref. repeated 11¼, and Dublin Distillers Pref. for a small lot 6⅛, but the Ord. of the latter fell 2s. to 48s. for a broken lot.

City of Dublin Steam established a fresh record in recent times by quoting 1 higher at 201.

In Marconis the Ord. fell 7½d. to 125s., but "Marines" rose 1s. 3d. to 71s. 3d., and Canadians 6d. to 18s. 6d., 18s. 9d. Americans remain at 30s.

Dealing in Home Rails was confined to Ordinary Stocks, and the tone was satisfactory. Great Northern rose ¼ to 85¼, and were reported over 86 later without quoting, and Great Southern and Western ¼ to 74, while Midland Great Western maintained the recent advance at 32.

Tramways were firm, but the only change was a rise of ¼ to 8¼ in Provincial 5 p.c. £10 Debs.

In Dunlops Parent Tyre Pref. alone quoted, and closed 16s. 3d., 16s. 1½d. The Deferred were called 68s. 6d., 69s. 9d., and Dunlop Rubber Ord. 7¼ ¼ unofficially.

Dealing in Bakery shares was confined to Bolands. The Ord. realised 47s. x.d., and the Pref. 7¼ x.d., an improvement on latest prices.

As regards Manufacturing shares, Goulding and Co. Ord. rose ¼ to 8¼, and Vickers 4½d. to 37s. 6d. Textiles were just the turn lower on realisations. Dyers fell 3d. to 43s. 9d. Coats' Ord. ⅛ to 8⅛, do. Pref. ⅛ to 11⅛, and Cotton Ord. 1½d. to 86s. 7½d. Bleachers were firm at 26s. 6d.

In Trading, etc., shares Burke Ord. fell 1s. to 94s., while Dublin Artisans' Dwellings repeated 10¼. In other business done Imperial Tobacco rose 1s. to 96s., and Mexican Eagle Oils 1s. 10½d. to 152s. 6d. Hibernian Fire, 4s. paid shares, fell back to 4s. 3d. Maypole Dairy Deferred again realised 24s. 9d., and New Vickers 36s. 9d.

LONDON STOCKS FIRM.
RUBBERS STRONG.

The Stock Exchange opened the week with a quietly firm appearance awaiting the German signature to the Peace Treaty. If this is announced dealers look for plenty of interruptions of the patriotic sort on Tuesday, and there was, therefore, a professional unwillingness to launch out much. The gradual intensification of the Loan campaign, which will be progressive until the closing of the lists on July 12, was also restrictive, though it did not interfere with the good general tone. The Coal Commission result, however, and the cotton strike had some chilling effect upon Industrials. Gilt-edged issues were hard. War Fives rose ⅛ to 94. There was no net change in the 3½ per cent. and 4½ per cent. Loans. Consols improved to 53⅝. Miscellaneous Gilt-edged Securities ruled quietly steady, without much movement. Exchequer Sixes were active around 101, and Indian Loans came in for a fair amount of attention. Colonial Loans ruled quiet and spotty.

Changes.—Rises—Consols, ⅛ to 53⅝; 5 p.c. War Loan, ⅛ to 94.

FOREIGN BONDS SLOW.—In the Foreign market conditions were slow throughout. There was some attempt to mark up French Loans on Peace expectations, but it did not meet with much success in the absence of any corresponding improvement in the Paris Exchange. Far Eastern Bonds met quiet support, but Russian Securities displayed some renewed heaviness, though there was little actual selling. South Americans kept in the background. Peruvians and Brazilians were dullish.

Changes.—Rises—Argentine Fives (1907), 88 x.d.; Greek Fives, 1 to 74. Falls—Hungarian Fours, 1 to 37; Japanese 4 p.c. (1905), 1 to 85; do. New Fives, 1 to 95¼.

HOME RAILS CHEERFUL.—Home Rails preserved a cheerful appearance, and prices easily responded to a further light volume of support, many quotations closing with good gains. Stock is evidently in limited supply all round, and the approach of the dividend period is helpful. Many Trunk and Trade stocks advanced ¼ to ½ on the session. Southern Stocks hung fire.

CANADIAN AND FOREIGN RAILS.—Canadian Pacifics were better around 174, but Grand Trunk Junior Stocks finished unchanged to ½ down, and the Guaranteed Fours, at 51, were ¼ weaker. Mexican Rails ruled dull, without change, and Argentine Rails lacked steadiness, quotations finishing with mixed changes of ¼ to ½, with losses predominating. Brazilian Rails lacked feature.

Changes.—Rises—Canadian Pacific, 1 to 174; Central Argentine, ½ to 54. Falls—Grand Trunk Guar., ½ to 51; do. 1st Pref., 1 to 55¼; do. 3rd Pref., ½ to 22¼; B.A. Great Southern, ½ to 66¼; B.A. and Pacific, ½ to 52; B.A. and Western, 1 to 67; Central Uruguay, 1 to 70.

INDUSTRIAL SHARES STEADY.
RISE IN COURTAULDS.

(FROM TO-DAY'S FINANCIAL NEWS.)

One of the chief features of the Industrial Market was the strength of Courtaulds, which left off at 10⁹⁄₁₆ buyers, a gain of ⅛. Listers, on renewed amalgamation talk, were lifted to 53/3; Vyse, Son, and Co. were in demand at 32/9, and Hope Bros. put on ⅛ at 1⅞, but Whiteley Pref. lost 6d. at 13/9. Bradford Dyers rose to 45/-, but English Sewing Cotton were rather easier at 4¼. A.B.C. were steady at 3⅛, Liptons at 31/9, and Lyons at 5¼, but Maypoles were 6d. higher at 25/-. Van Den Vergh receded ⅛ to 3⅞. Nigers rose 1/- to 77/-, the New being quoted at 10/6 prem. Bays were down ⅛ to 8¼, and Pekins were unchanged. Cement put on ⅛ at 7⅛. British Oil and Cake 6d. at 40/-, and Eastmans rose 9d., but Welsbach fell ⅛ to 2¼, and Darracq eased to 1⅞. The demand for Imperial Tobacco showed no signs of slackening, and the final price of 97/6 showed a gain of 2/-. The "A," "B," and "C" Prefs., however, were all easier at 21/-, 21/6, and 32/- respectively. B.A.T. lost ⅛ at 5¼, and United Tobaccos ⅛ at 5⅛. Among Iron and Steel Shares Swan-Hunter further rose ¼ to 3¼, but Mond Nickel lost ¼ at 3¼, and Pearson and Knowles also ¼ at 5¼. Siemens were quoted at 7¼. Of the Shipping Shares, P. and O. Def. left off unaltered at 495, Royal Mail at 164¼, and Furness-Withy at 4⅜, but Cunard shed ⅛ at 3⅛, and Court Line 1/- at 38/-. Apart from Guardians, which were in request and rose ⅛ to 8¼, Insurances were dull. Commercial Union and Royal Insurances lost ½ at 57 and 45¼ respectively. Alliance Old at 12¼, and New at 12¼, were both ¼ lower, and London Assurance declined ¼ to 9¼. Among Telegraphs, Eastern dropped 1 to 160¼, and Globe Telegraph and Trust ¼ to 15¼. The Marconi issues were not particularly active, but kept firm, the only changes being a fall of ⅛ in the Parent Pref. to 5⅛, and a rise of 3d. in Americans to 30/9. The Canadian-American group had a busy appearance. Brazilian Traction left off a point higher at 62¼. Columbia Gas rose 2 to 58, Canada Steel Common put on 1 at 71¼, and Canada Cement Pref. were ¼ better at 105. Cities Service, however, dropped 5 to 435, Consolidated Cities Bonds 1 to 86, and Spanish River Pulp Pref. also 1 to 107. Among Tramways, British Electric Traction receded 1, and Singapore declined 5d. to 4/-. Banks were idle, Chartered of India were lowered 1 to 76, and Canadian of Commerce ¼ to 43. Breweries attracted very little attention, but Watneys Def. further improved 1. Strand Hotel Pref. eased ⅛ to 1⅛.

Changes:—Rises—Aerated Bread, ⅛ to 3⅞; Courtaulds, ⅛ to 10⁹⁄₁₆; Eastmans, 9d. to 19/3; Imperial Tobacco, 2/- to 97/6; Brazilian Tractions, 1 to 62¼. Fall—Anglo-Argentine Tram 1st Pref., ⅛ to 3⅛.

OIL MARKET FIRM.
NEW HIGH RECORD REACHED BY MEXICAN EAGLE COMMON.
GOOD BUSINESS IN OTHER OILS.

(FROM TO-DAY'S FINANCIAL NEWS.)

Dealings in Oil Shares yesterday were on a good scale, but with little of the excitement recently experienced. The principal feature was Mexican Eagles, which further advanced to the record price of 7⁹⁄₁₆, the gain on the day being ⅛. The Prefs improved ⅛ to 7¼. Shells were a good market, the report being well liked, and the shares rose ⅛ to 9⅛, and Burmahs finished firm at 11 after touching 11⅛. The United British of Trinidad issues were strong—the "A" Shares rose to 2⅛, the "B" to 1⅛, and the "C" to ⅞. Trinidad Oilfields strengthened to 18/6. Trinidad Leaseholds and Centrals remained steady. British Burmahs advanced ⅛ to 2⅛, British Borneo hardened to 1⅛, and Assams remained at 2⅛. Lobitos improved ⅛ to 4⅛; Venezuelan Oil Concession gained ⅛ at 4⅞, and Anglo-Egyptian "B" kept steady at 6⅛. Roumanian Consolidated put on 9d. at 20/9. Premier Pipes rose 9d. to 4/9, and Ratoczyn Galicia advanced ⅛ to 9⅛.

English Oilfields left off at 1⅛. Oil Trusts kept firm around 2/10½. Suvoroff Taman rose 1/6 to 14/-, it being understood that the company has met with oil at a shallow depth, and is proceeding with drilling to a depth of from 1,000 to 1,500 feet, the company being afforded every facility by the Indian Government. North Caucasians were dealt in ex-rights, the rights being valued at 3/-. Allowing for the deduction of the rights, the shares were unchanged at 26/-. Ural Caspians improved ⅛ to 2⅛, but Spies weakened 3d. to 14/-, and Anglo-Maikop fell 6d. to 7/-. Maisels Petroleum Trust lost 6d. at 16/-.

MINING SHARES CHEERFUL.—In spite of the declaration of dividends by the Johannesburg Consolidated and the Central Rand Mines groups, there was very little life in the Mining market. As will be seen from the list given in another column, there are no sensational rises or falls in the dividends. Some of the "Johnnies" group have again come into the list, and the Parent Company has, as was expected, increased its former declaration by 6d. a share. The movements in prices were not numerous, and rarely exceeded ⅛ either way. The tone was cheerful, and business moderately active.

RUBBER SHARES CHEERFUL.—On Monday last the price of rubber fell to 1/8 per lb., and the Share market was in a disconsolate condition. Yesterday rubber was 1/10½, and the week opened with a cheerful tone all round, as may be seen from the following table:—

	Yesterday.	Last Monday.
Anglo-Dutch	50/9	47/-
Rubber Trust	35/9	31/7½
Linggi	69/3	66/3
Langen Java	43/6	38/9
Highlands	50/-	47/6

Bandar Sumatra were wanted at 44/6, and Bukit Kajang at 70/7½, while Batu Kawan were harder at 31/3. Java Investment were firm at 39/6. Java Rubber and Produce rose ⅛ to 50/-, and Java United were higher at 27/6. There was a small seller of Riverside at 67/6, but Sungei Bahru were wanted at 38/9. Serdang Central were done at 41/-, and Tebrau at 66/-. Tanjong Malim offered around 30/-. A decidedly harder tone was noticeable in the Fiorinер division, Chembong were taken at 5/7½, and Kamuning improved to 4/-. Singapore United were in demand, finishing 3/3 bid, and Tempeh Java were higher, with buyers at 2/10. United Serdang rose 4½d. to 13/10½, while Vallambrosa were a shade harder at 21/6. There was no particular feature in the Borneo group, but the splitting of Bangawan Shares has now actually been accomplished, and the 2/- shares were changing hands around 3/-. Tenom were in demand at about 49/-.

THE MONEY MARKET.

Bank Rate (changed April 5th, 1917) .... 5 p.c.

Funds were abundant again in the Money market yesterday, from which fact the conclusion was drawn that the Government was specially disbursing funds with a view to assisting the inflow of subscriptions to the New Loan. Call loans rarely realised 3 p.c., the usual charge being 2½ p.c., while weekly fixtures offered either side of 3 p.c. The Discount market ruled quiet owing to the small supply of paper on offer, and efforts to make rates harder were unsuccessful. Treasury Bills continue to run off daily in large blocks. Three months' Bank drafts were taken at 3½ to 3⅝, and six months at 3½ to 3⅝ p.c.

DUBLIN CITY SESSIONS.

BREACH OF WARRANTY.

Yesterday, at the City Sessions, before the Recorder, in Green street Courthouse, in an action for breach of warranty in the sale of butter, in which the plaintiff was William O'Callaghan, grocer, Carysfort avenue, Blackrock, and the defendants Messrs. Nolan and Co., wholesale butter merchants, Cope street, Dublin, Mr. J. M. Flood (instructed by Messrs. Little, Doyle, and Woods), for the plaintiff, said that his client was in no way responsible for the amount of water which it was found on analysis the butter contained. Mr. O'Callaghan had bought the butter under a warranty from Messrs. Nolan that the butter did not contain more than the percentage of moisture permitted by law; but examination showed that it amounted to 20.5 per cent. The butter had been purchased by the defendants from a Limerick creamery. Plaintiff had been fined by Mr. Lupton, at Kingstown Police Court, in £2 for selling butter with an excessive amount of moisture, but the magistrate said that if he had evidence to satisfy him that the plaintiff had sold the butter believing it all right he would dismiss the summons.

Mr. Bradley, for the defendants, said that his clients had bought the butter from a Limerick creamery, under the belief that it did not contain more than the amount of water which the law permitted. In some cases it happened that an excess of moisture got into the butter in the refrigerating room, owing to the Admiralty having commandeered large supplies of carbonic acid gas, which creamery people employed to keep the butter from getting overloaded with moisture while in storage.

A decree for £6 4/- was given, Mr. Bradley remarking that his clients would proceed for compensation against the firm that sold them the butter.

ACTION FOR SLANDER.

Hyman Harris Weiner, Longwood avenue, S.C.R., described as a photographic artist, claimed damages for alleged slander against William Hare, a National School Teacher, of 61 North Strand road, in respect of certain words alleged to have been used by defendant towards plaintiff.

Mr. Kingsmill Moore (instructed by Mr. Bradley) appeared for the plaintiff, and Mr. Joseph O'Connor (instructed by Messrs. Gerald Byrne and Co.) for the defendant.

The case for the plaintiff was that in March last defendant accosted him in College Green, and asked plaintiff to hand up to him a photograph of defendant's daughter, which he had taken from defendant's residence to have enlarged, and that on plaintiff declining to do so, defendant threatened to follow him up and have detectives put on his track. Defendant at the time alleged that the plaintiff was well-known to the detectives, and asked plaintiff to go with him to the Detective Office.

For the defence the evidence was that the plaintiff came to defendant's house some time after his son was killed while fighting in France, and asked to be given an order for the enlargement of his photograph. Plaintiff then gave his name as Weir, but when asked for his address declined to give it, stating that that was his own business. Defendant made no imputations then, or subsequently, against plaintiff; but he had suspicions of him, and that he had been in trouble with the police. When the enlarged photograph was delivered to defendant it was quite unsatisfactory, and the photograph of his daughter was not sent back until shortly before the action for slander was brought.

His lordship, having reviewed the circumstances, said that the suspicions felt by the defendant were perfectly intelligible, and Weiner had acted in a most outrageous manner in detaining the photograph of the young lady after its return was demanded. All the trouble, such as it was, was brought about by Weiner himself. The words complained of amounted to a technical offence, when looked at with meticulous care; but it was of a very paltry character, and the case ought not to have been brought. He would give the plaintiff a farthing damages, with 6/9 costs, in that court, but he would get no costs in the High Court.

DIVIDENDS AND REPORTS.

TEDCASTLE, McCORMICK, AND CO., LTD.—8 per cent. per annum, £43,000 to reserve, and £3,000 off investments, against 10 per cent. for year ended 31st March, 1918, when £8,000 was written off steamers, £9,000 to reserve for depreciation of investments, £5,000 to reserve for war risks, and £3,956 forward.

WHITE, TOMKINS, AND COURAGE.—The report of the directors, to be submitted to the shareholders at the twenty-third annual general meeting at the Cannon street Hotel, on Monday, June 30th, states that, after providing for excess profits duty, and bringing in the balance from last year's account, the sum available for distribution is £66,714 1/2, out of which dividends for the half-year to 30th September, 1918, and for the half-year to 31st March, 1919, have been paid to the Preference Shareholders, leaving a balance of £57,714 1/2, which the directors recommend should be apportioned as follows:—Dividend to Ordinary Shareholders at 10 per cent. per annum, £18,000; to reserve account, £15,000; balance to be carried forward, £24,714 1/2. The reduction in the profits, as compared with the previous year, is mainly owing to the supplies of raw materials being so short that the factories were producing about one-quarter of their normal output, and for the same reason some important branches of the business were entirely suspended, but the position is now improved. In accordance with the Articles of Association, the directors to retire by rotation are Messrs. E. L. Meinertzhagen and A. Gordon Courage, who, being eligible, offer themselves for re-election. The auditors, Messrs. Chatteris, Nichols, and Co., of London, and Messrs. John McCullough and Sons, of Belfast, retire, and, being eligible, offer themselves for re-election. The dividend and reserve allocations a year ago were the same, when £34,021 was carried forward.

CLONTARF SOLDIERS' CLUB.

A meeting in connection with the closing of the Clontarf Soldiers' Club was held last Monday at Merchamp, Clontarf, the President, Mrs. Picton Bradshaw, presiding. The Hon. Treasurer, Mr. T. Picton Bradshaw, in submitting the statement of accounts, gave details of the work done, which showed the appreciation of the Club by the men attending the Dollymount School of Musketry, for whose benefit the Club was opened in January, 1918. The Club remained open for 388 days, during which meals were served to 24,581 men; the cash takings amounted to £789 10s. 2d.; subscriptions £35 12s. 6d.; proceeds of auction, £20 12s. 1d., making a total income of £845 14s. 9d. The total payments amounted to £742 0s. 6d., leaving a credit balance of £103 14s. 3d. From this surplus £10 had been contributed last August to the R.D.F. Prisoners of War Fund (together with £25 2s., proceeds of a Clontarf stall organised at the Howth Castle Fête by the President), and £15 had already been sent to further the work of the Soldiers' and Sailors' Help Society, which left a balance still in the Hon. Treasurer's hands of £78 14s. 3d. The Hon. Treasurer proposed, with the approval of the ladies, to allocate £25 towards the work of St. Dunstan's Home for Blind Soldiers, £10 towards the continuance of the work of the Soldiers' Central Club, College street, £5 to the Army Scripture Readers' Help Society, and he suggested, should funds be urgently required, a sum of £10 towards the Bray Hospital for Limbless Soldiers, leaving the balance to be allocated by him towards the Clontarf memorials. At the conclusion of the business Mrs. Picton Bradshaw entertained the ladies to tea, and presented each lady in charge with a souvenir in the shape of a spoon bearing a suitable inscription, and thanked all for their help in bringing the undertaking to such a successful conclusion.

LEVER BROTHERS AND MARGARINE.

INTERESTING DEVELOPMENTS EXPECTED.

(FROM TO-DAY'S FINANCIAL NEWS.)

We announced on Thursday last that resolutions are proposed by the directors of Lever Brothers, Limited, to increase the capital of the company from £60,000,000 to £100,000,000 by the creation of 10,000,000 15 per cent. "A" Preferred-Ordinary £1 Shares, 10,000,000 20 per cent. "A" Preferred-Ordinary £1 Shares, 10,000,000 20 per cent. "B" Preferred-Ordinary £1 shares, 20,000,000 5 per cent. Preferred-Ordinary 5s. Shares, and 500,000 Ordinary £10 Shares. The necessary meetings have been called for June 26, and no announcement has been made yet as to the purpose of preparing to raise fresh capital. In the absence of any official statement, rumour suggests that Lever Brothers is going to take a much deeper interest in the margarine trade in future, and it is hinted that such concerns as Van Den Berghs, Maypole Dairy, and, indeed, a portion of the Brunner Mond business may be brought under the control of the great soap manufacturing firm. The predominant influence which Lever Brothers exercise in the vegetable oil trade lends colour to the rumours, and it seems probable that some interesting developments in the margarine business will be shortly announced.

LIVERPOOL COTTON (Close), Monday.—Sales 5,000, imports 25,885 bales. American quiet; quotations reduced 7 points. Brazilian quotations are reduced 7 points. East Indian is unchanged. Egyptian is quiet. June 19.97d., July 19.82d., August 19.48d., September 19.30d., October 19.14d., January 18.75d. Market quiet.

WOOL.—BRADFORD, Monday.—There is not much activity in this market owing to uncertainty as to whether the issue prices for wool would be raised by the Government. A decision is expected to-morrow, and meanwhile topmakers are unwilling sellers, whilst users are well covered for present needs. The pending peace settlement also exercises an effect, and favours a waiting policy. Bradford merchants are buying English wool freely, but not yet quoting here.

DANGER OF PROCRASTINATION

Nature's laws invariably assert themselves, man can't dethrone them; if he fights against them disaster follows. This is particularly applicable to the eyesight, when by nature Vision becomes impaired. Don't put off getting Glasses, don't procrastinate, the eyes will suffer, and probably the health. Consult Dixon and Hempenstall, State Opticians, 12 Suffolk street.

Also 2 Magnificent Farms in South County Dublin. Particulars on application.

ATTRACTIVE SALE OF COMPACT GRAZING AND TILLAGE FARM,

TUBERMACLUGG, LUCAN, CO. DUBLIN.

WE have been favoured with instructions from the Representatives of the late A. J. Barr, Esq., TO SELL BY PUBLIC AUCTION, in OUR SALEROOMS, 4 HAYMARKET, DUBLIN, on THURSDAY NEXT, JUNE 26th, 1919, at 1 o'clock, p.m., precisely, the interest and goodwill in their compact Holding, situated as above, together with the Crops growing thereon, and containing 84a. 3r. 20p., or thereabouts, subject to an I.L.C. annuity of £54 14s. 0d. P.L.V., £75.

The Farm, which is very nicely situated, about 1 mile from Lucan, 2 miles from Celbridge, 7 miles from Dublin, and on the main road leading from Lucan to Hazelhatch, is of the very richest quality.

It is divided into convenient sized fields, all of which adjoin the main road, and are at present cropped as follows:—14 acres wheat, 12 acres oats, 15 acres 1st crop meadows, 10 acres 2nd year meadow, 10 acres 3rd year meadow, 15 acres potatoes, 1 acre mangolds, and the balance under pasture.

The crops, which are at present in very forward condition, show every evidence of being most carefully and skilfully treated, and give promise of a most abundant harvest.

THE HOUSE, which is in keeping with the size of the Holding, contains 2 reception and 4 bedrooms, bath (h. and c.), kitchen, scullery, etc. The out-offices are spacious, and comprise stabling for 5 horses, with loft to hold about 200 barrels of corn; potato house, implement shed, fowl house, harness room, coach and coal houses, large hay barn, to hold 120 tons, etc., etc. From its proximity to the Dublin Markets, and being situated in one of the most fertile districts in the County, this property should prove a most ideal and sound investment.

For further particulars and Conditions of Sale, apply to Messrs. O'NEILL and COLLINS, Solicitors, having Carriage of Sale, 190 Great Brunswick street, Dublin. 'Phone 35.

SALE OF COMPACT GRASS FARM,

GLENCULLEN, CO. DUBLIN.

WE have been favoured with instructions from Hugh Roe, Esq., TO SELL BY PUBLIC AUCTION, in OUR SALEROOMS, 4 HAYMARKET, DUBLIN, on THURSDAY NEXT, 26th JUNE, 1919, at 1.30, all the interest in his 2 magnificent outlying Grazing Farms, situated as above, and containing 53¼ or thereabouts, held as a yearly tenancy, and subject to the low rent of £29 4s. 4d. P.L.V., £50.

The Holding, which is one of the best in the district, adjoins the main road, leading from Glencullen to Stepaside, and is at present all in grass of very rich quality, with the exception of about 3 acres under corn. There is a workman's cottage on the holding.

Messrs. MILEY and MILEY, Solicitors, 12 South Frederick street, Dublin. 'Phone Dublin 83.

PRELIMINARY NOTICE.

PRIME GRAZING FARMS,

KILBARRACK, HOWTH ROAD, CO. DUBLIN.

WE have been favoured with instructions from Christopher Dunne, Esq., to SELL BY PUBLIC AUCTION, in OUR SALEROOMS, 4 HAYMARKET, DUBLIN, on THURSDAY, JULY 10th, 1919, at 1 o'clock, p.m., his 2 Magnificent Grazing Farms, situated as above, and containing:—

(a) 28a. 1r. 24p., held at the Judicial 1st term rent of £42 0 0. P.L.V., £42 10 0.

(b) 17a. 3r. 15p., held at the Judicial 1st term rent of £26 17 0. P.L.V., £26 10 0.

The Lands are of prime quality, and are all under grass at present. Being situated so convenient to the city, they should prove a most desirable investment.

Full particulars in future issues.

Solicitors: Messrs. MAXWELL, WELDON and CO., 40 North Great George's street, Dublin. Phone 327.
